Don Levine, president of Sigma Chi, waves the spirit trophy to his fellow fraternity brothers. The trophy was awarded during halftime festivities of the homecoming game.

Kandie Kinser and Kate Moore, members of Alpha Gamma Delta, participate in the three-legged race during Little International.

Derby Day

Derby Week is a week long event which involves the participation of all sororities. All money raised from Derby Day is donated to Wallace Village for children in Colorado. The 1978 winner of Derby Week was Chi Omega.

Members from all campus sororities participate in the Derby Chase which climaxed the events of the Sigma Chi sponsored Derby Week.

Members of Omega Psi Phi step outside the University Center as part of their activities for pledges.

"What do you mean there are no trout in here?" says baitcasting instructor Dick LaLance.

Two students attempt to build a snowman after a storm which deposited up to six inches of snow in the middle Tennessee area.

Kevin O'Keefe digs in during a Gamma Beta Phi fellowship dinner. The dinner was one of many activities sponsored by the honorary club.

The Many Faces Of Kirksey Old Main

Kirksey Old Main was constructed in 1910 as the first building on the campus of MTSU. The building housed the administration, classrooms, auditorium, gymnasium, bookstore and the Post Office. To put it simply, Old Main was The Building at MTSU. Old Main has undergone three major renovations in 1961, 1964 and 1965.

In 1978 Old Main was renamed in honor of Howard G. Kirksey, who taught and directed student teaching programs in Old Main.

The beauty and history of Old Main is not recognized by every student. But when one takes a closer look at the historic building one should see that the building is not only a building of classrooms, but a building of beauty and historical importance to MTSU.

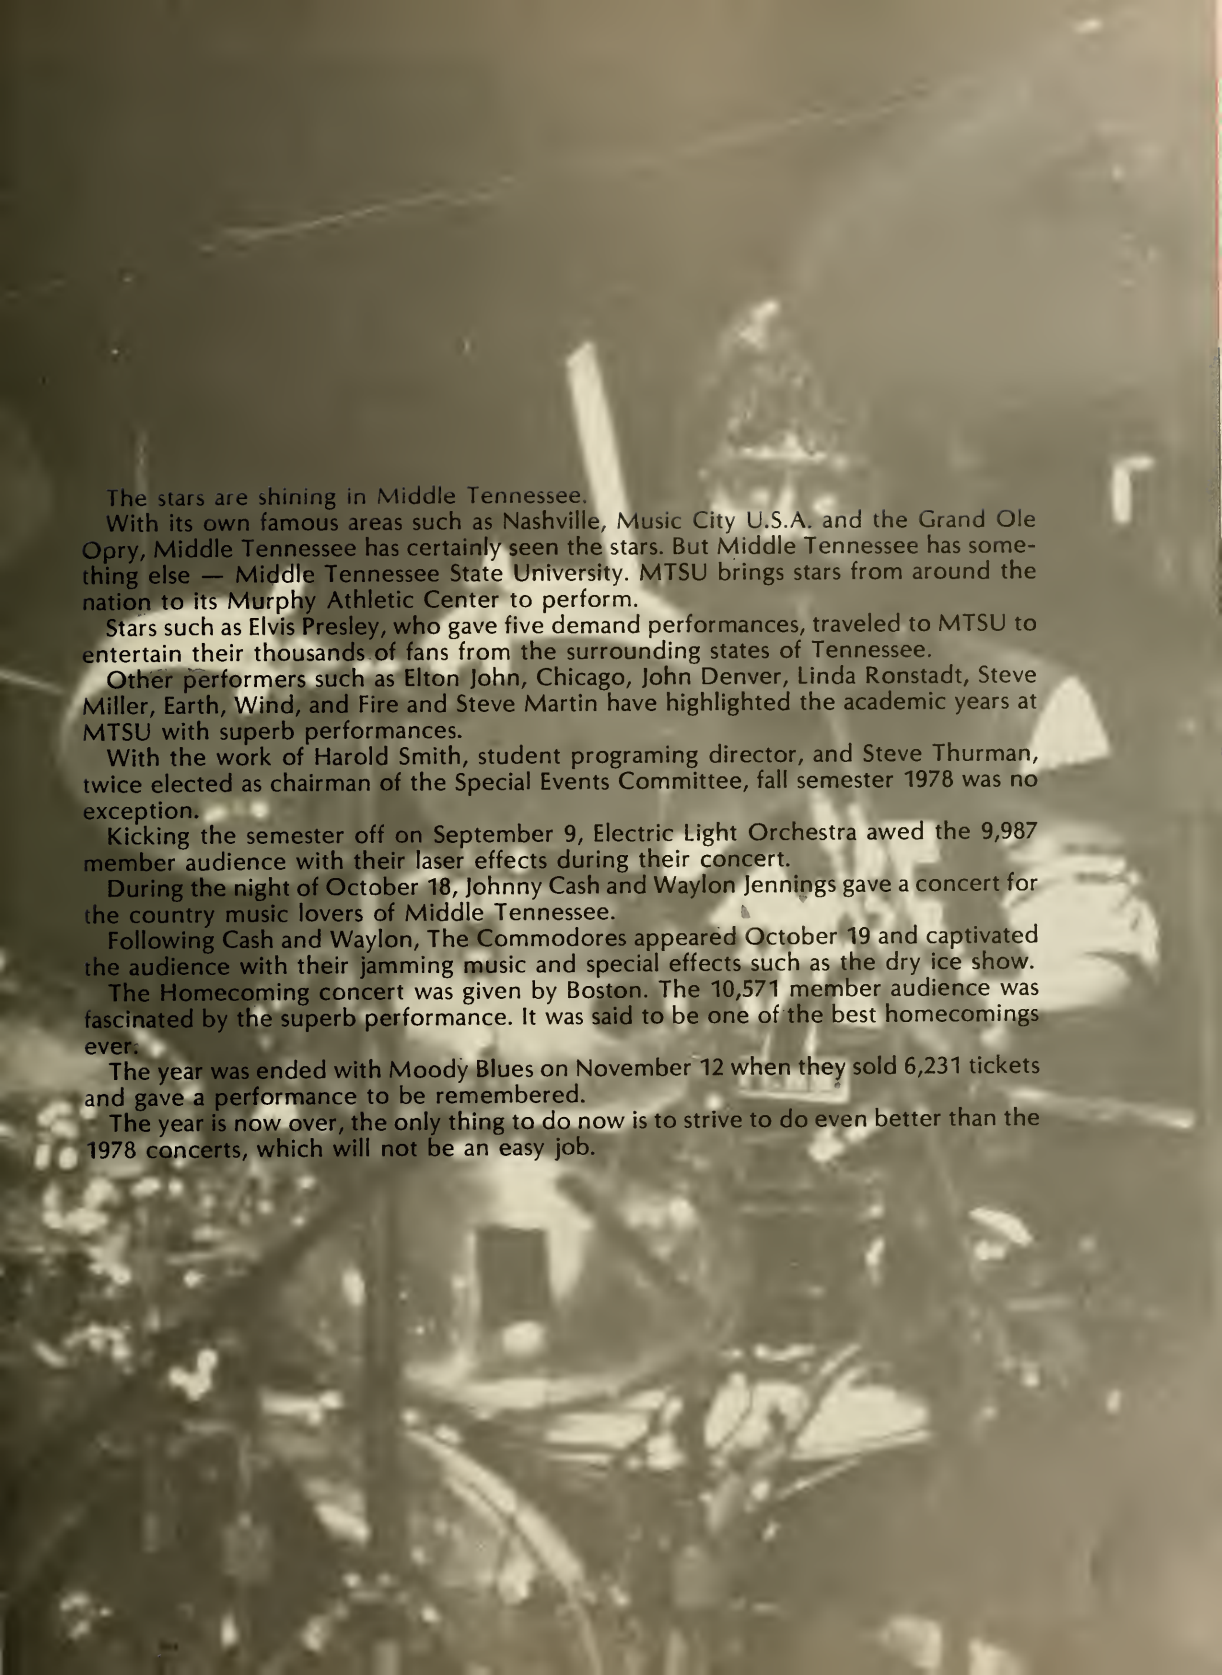

"Thank God I'm A Country Boy"

Come live in my heart and pay no rent.

The stars are shining in Middle Tennessee.

With its own famous areas such as Nashville, Music City U.S.A. and the Grand Ole Opry, Middle Tennessee has certainly seen the stars. But Middle Tennessee has something else — Middle Tennessee State University. MTSU brings stars from around the nation to its Murphy Athletic Center to perform.

Stars such as Elvis Presley, who gave five demand performances, traveled to MTSU to entertain their thousands of fans from the surrounding states of Tennessee.

Other performers such as Elton John, Chicago, John Denver, Linda Ronstadt, Steve Miller, Earth, Wind, and Fire and Steve Martin have highlighted the academic years at MTSU with superb performances.

With the work of Harold Smith, student programing director, and Steve Thurman, twice elected as chairman of the Special Events Committee, fall semester 1978 was no exception.

Kicking the semester off on September 9, Electric Light Orchestra awed the 9,987 member audience with their laser effects during their concert.

During the night of October 18, Johnny Cash and Waylon Jennings gave a concert for the country music lovers of Middle Tennessee.

Following Cash and Waylon, The Commodores appeared October 19 and captivated the audience with their jamming music and special effects such as the dry ice show.

The Homecoming concert was given by Boston. The 10,571 member audience was fascinated by the superb performance. It was said to be one of the best homecomings ever.

The year was ended with Moody Blues on November 12 when they sold 6,231 tickets and gave a performance to be remembered.

The year is now over, the only thing to do now is to strive to do even better than the 1978 concerts, which will not be an easy job.

ELO

The Special Events Committee opened its 1978 "Fall Concerts for All" with a spectacular success as the British rock group Electric Light Orchestra, better known as E.L.O., rewarded the 10,000-plus audience with a fantastic open to a concert season.

E.L.O. played some of their best known hits, such as "Out of the Blue," "Can't Get You Out of My Head," "Strange Magic," and "Telephone Line." Even though E.L.O. was unable to bring their spaceship stage to Murphy Center, the crowd was entertained by the group's tight vocals and use of lasers. The group gave two rare encores before the close of the concert at the audience's insistence.

The M.T.S.U. Special Events did an outstanding job in the selection of a season opening concert.

CASH

WAYLON

Country came to MTSU as Johnny Cash and June Carter along with Jesse Coulter and Waylon Jennings took the stage at MTSU's Murphy Center. "The Johnny Cash Show" took country fans back to some of their most famous hits to some of today's new country greats.

Cash used an especially interesting addition to the concert using a giant video screen to help with visual images in several of the songs he performed. Jesse Coulter proved to be a fine halfway point of the evening and highlighted her portion of the night with her hit "I'm Not Lisa." And, as expected, Waylon Jennings ended the night in great form as he brought country and rock together for a super ending to an evening of country on the MTSU campus.

COMMODORES

Fall concerts for all continued at Murphy Center as the Commodores mixed old with new from songs like their opening number "Fancy Dancer" and "Just Want To Be Close To You" to great hits like "Three Times A Lady" and "Easy." And easy it was, as the five motown greats made for an exciting night for concert goers at MTSU.

BOSTON

A "rock and roll treat" gave rock fans a chance to express their interest at the Boston concert. The concert made an exciting end to a week of Homecoming festivities.

The near sellout crowd, standing for a large period of the concert, didn't hesitate to participate as Boston played from their list of hits like "Don't Look Back," "More Than a Feeling," and many others. Mixing guitars, drums and perfect harmonies, Boston proved themselves as one of the top rock groups in the country and had little trouble convincing the audience that they were the best close for MTSU's Homecoming.

MOODY

BLUES

November 12, 1978

Two white floodlights flashed on like huge staring eyes, blinding the audience with their intensity ... moments later the Moody Blues broke the darkness with the beginning notes of "Slide Zone" and the stage came alive! With hardly a break between songs they filled the auditorium with the rich, orchestrated sounds of "Tuesday Afternoon," "Twilight Time," "Heartaches" and "The Story in Your Eyes" ... and that was only the beginning.

In the true genius of the Moody Blues they ignited the audience with some of their more recent compositions: "Driftwood," "Survival," and "I'll Be Level With You." But the real showstopper came near the end of the concert when the Moody Blues played perhaps their most famous song "Nights in White Satin" leaving the audience absolutely slack-jawed with awe!

They were in true form and exited to a three-minute standing ovation before returning for one last song to finish off one of the finest concerts ever performed in Murphy Center.

Royal Family

"The Royal Family" may have been written in the 20's, but its relevance to the 70's is astounding.

George S. Kaufman and Edna Ferber created a strange lot in the eccentric Cavendish family and the University Theatre brought them to life with vigor and aplomb in their season opening production.

With strong direction by Dorethe Tucker, the cast, a blend of old and new faces, presented a fine ensemble performance that infected the audience with enthusiasm.

As Julie Cavendish (the most beautiful woman on Broadway), Barbara Ambrose did a remarkable job.

Her graceful sweep down the stairs in her first entrance did more for the men in the audience than a whole year of Farrah Fawcett-Majors could.

Bob Forsythe, the versatile University Theatre veteran, did a fine job as Julie's matinee-idol brother, Tony. His dashing entrance in a long black cape rivaled that of Ambrose for sheer effect.

As Fanny Cavendish, the family matriarch, Carolyn Jones was faced with the task of being believable in the role of a much older woman. She succeeded with a blend of speech patterns and nuances which did not possess even a trace of false airs.

As Julie's daughter, Lisa Davis gave a strong performance in a role totally unfamiliar to her — that of an ingenue. Martin McGeachey and Vickie Stegall as Fanny's brother and sister-in-law were among the strong supporting cast giving their all in "The Royal Family."

Clay Hawes' set depicting the Cavendish's fashionable New York apartment, was nothing short of stunning. Many long hours of work were required to produce the set which made the shoe pleasing to look at. Patricia Lane's costumes were tasteful and elegant (although the satin gowns were a bit overdone), but they were definitely 30's fashions for a play set in the 20's.

Although the first act was a bit weak, the performers warmed to their task, making the second and third acts examples of fine acting and direction.

Had you been in the audience you would have scarcely doubted its approval of the play. The near capacity audiences each evening made their approval known at the end of each performance with resounding ovations.

The Cavendish's would have loved it!

Oldest Student Enjoys Learning

Most of MTSU's students eagerly await the day when they walk down the aisle to receive their degrees. Many graduates accept that degree while still in their twenties. But one MTSU student waited until she was 68-years-old to begin her college career. That student has the attitude that learning is an exciting process that should occur every day in a person's life.

At 71-years-old, Mrs. Annabelle Bourne is MTSU's oldest student. One of a very small number, Mrs. Bourne is enrolled in the 65-and-over audit program offered by the university.

On sight, one can see that Mrs. Bourne is not a typical senior citizen who sits in a rocking chair, crocheting her life away while she talks of her children and grandchildren. As she sat with her Wall Street Journal in her lap, Mrs. Bourne spoke of the class she is taking, English Literature in the Romantic Period. Referring to her professor, Gregg Coleman, "a great teacher," she said, "It's as though he has stepped right out of the period." Her classmates, she said, are bright, alert and "so very smart." She admires them and their generation as a group and as individuals. Af if it surprised her, Mrs. Bourne observed that as a group they have curious minds, that they question things she never questioned in years past. "I learn as much from them as I do from my teacher." Then quickly she added, "Well ... almost."

There is never a dull moment in Annie's life. She loves to read in her spare time and cooking is also a favorite pastime. "I'd rather cook than eat," she quips. An early riser Mrs. Bourne walks 3½ miles before breakfast every morning in any kind of weather. She also enjoys traveling, visiting her children and grandchildren, who live in the Northeast, every opportunity she can.

A lady who walks across town and back before many awaken in the morning. A lady who doesn't sit in a rocking chair all day, who doesn't crochet, who would rather cook than eat and who is "worn out from hearing people talking about their grandchildren." That's Mrs. Annabelle Bourne, at 71 years young, MTSU's oldest student.

Band Of Blue Marches On

Don't get your popcorn now, it's almost halftime!

A Band of Blue fan points to the sidelines, where 142 band members are standing straight and rigid, not moving a muscle. A sense of anticipation fills the air. All is quite on the field as drum majorette Terry Sloan takes her position in front of the band.

The crowd may not be paying attention now, but suddenly . . . "Hup, Hup, Ready, Go!" Heads turn, all eyes on the band as they play a 20-count fanfare and then march on to the field playing "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue," followed by "My Favorite Things," "Flight of the Bumblebee," and "Fiddler on the Roof."

While playing for 11 minutes, the band concentrates on their drill. Remember the big star that they made on the field? That took practice, concentration, and teamwork. Three days before everyone else registered, the Band of Blue, composed of over 55 freshmen, was already practicing for that first ballgame performance against T.S.U.

From 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. with breaks for lunch and dinner, the band practiced perfecting marching steps and learning drills.

"We worked really hard, and it was so hot we weren't sure if we were going to make it!" Rhonda Wheeler, flag member said.

Throughout the first semester, the band practices for an hour and a half, three days a week and usually practices right before the game.

Practice paid off this year, according to Band Director Joseph T. Smith. "It's been one of our better years,"

Smith reflected, while boasting about how smoothly the Contest of Champions ran.

With over 50 bands from all over the Southeast competing for the grand championship and Tennessee bands fighting to receive the governors Cup, there is bound to be a lot of confusion, delays and hassles. However, Smith, Assistant Band Director Linda Mitchell and the band students ironed out most of these problems.

"Our schedule ran on time, and we got letters back from other bands raving about how smoothly the day turned out," Cindy

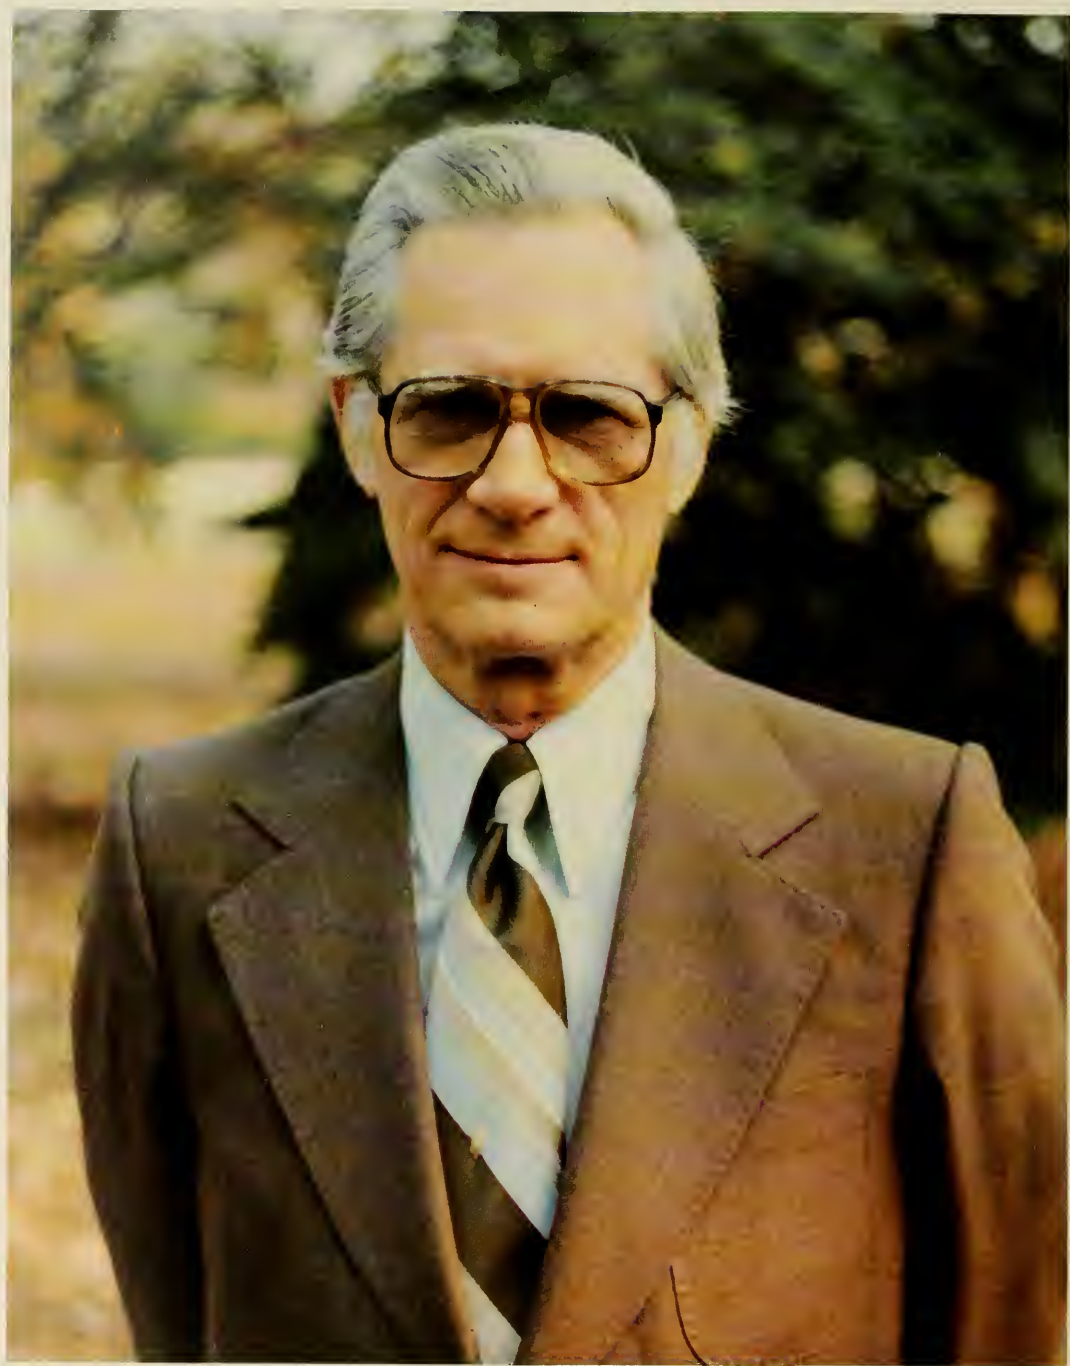

Houston, french horn player said. Most surprisingly, it did not even rain.

You may have seen the contest on television Nov. 14 or 29, since for the first time, the contest was beamed off a satellite and received national television coverage. "We had a hard working group this year," Smith said, still reminiscing over the past year. The 20 flag girls and six riflemen came to band camp three days early to begin preparing their drills for marching season. Remember the Russian dance they performed during halftime, and their feature number in "Phantom of the Opera?" During "Española," Martha Kelly, from Oak Ridge, captivated the audience with her baton-twirling abilities. You know, the band deserves more credit than just that of marching a half-time show. Trumpet solo's and drum rolls aid the cheerleaders and add to the spirit at football games. The pre-game show gives early game arrivals something to watch. The band exits the field now to drum taps, the football team rushes back on. Taking their seats in the section reserved especially for them, the band members are pretty content, but there is always room for improvements, so between now and their next appearance, the band will practice just as hard learning new drills or improving old ones. It's all part of being a proud member of the MTSU Band of Blue.

Scarlett Guides MTSU To The Top

From a "good, young university" to an "outstanding regional university" President M.G. Scarlett lead the university to improvements and expansion.

Let us carry you back to September 31, 1968 when the Scarlett years began and follow a path through the years of the Scarlett administration until 1978 when he submitted his resignation as president of Middle Tennessee State University.

Upon becoming fifth president of MTSU, Scarlett said that a program including the curriculum and teaching methods must be considered and evaluated. The program should be geared, he said, to the student needs and to what he wants to get out of college.

"I must be naive," Scarlett admitted, "but I believe conflict between students and an institution exists because they believe what they get in the classroom is actually not relevant. I have some ideas that I would like to work towards," to alleviate the problems he said during his inaugural speech.

And work he did. MTSU has taken one step at a time since the appointment of Scarlett toward broadening the scope of education.

When Scarlett assumed the role of president, the student body consisted of less than 7,000 students. Since his presidential appointment, the enrollment figures have climbed to more than 10,000. Among this, other changes were also made.

The university judicial system shifted its focus to student adjudication by peer groups and student members were appointed with full voting privileges to all standing university committees. General education requirements were amended to make the curriculum more attractive to new students and more responsive to their needs.

MTSU was reorganized with four undergraduate schools in 1962 — Basic and Applied Science, Business, Education and Liberal Arts and the graduate school. Other programs were also expanded to meet the needs of the growing university.

The Mass Communications department, with 750 majors, offers sequences in journalism, radio, television, graphics, recording and advertising/public relations. The aerospace department offers bachelors and masters degrees to its 350 majors.

Military Science, compulsory 10 years ago, under Scarlett's leadership and against strong pressure, became a voluntary program. The seniors of 1977-78 won the coveted "Warrior of the Pacific" trophy, marking them as the foremost ROTC unit in the nation.

In the early years of the Scarlett decade, relations between students and the Murfreesboro community became strained as neighbors protested loud off-campus parties. President Scarlett was responsible for arranging many meetings between city officials and MTSU students. As a result of this, a document was written affirming the rights of students as citizens for support of city officials and law enforcement officers by members of the university committee.

Dr. Scarlett's leadership is primarily responsible for substantial social and academic progress at MTSU. He has insisted on choosing alternatives consistent with reason, not dictated by pressure or expedience. Dr. Scarlett has transformed 'the college' into Middle Tennessee State University, D. Vance Martin, the 1970 ASB president, said.

The capture of the 1976-77 Ohio Valley Conference All-Sports championship was the highpoint in sports during the Scarlett years. MTSU became the first Tennessee school in history to post such a title.

Scarlett has maintained a belief that if MTSU could compete with larger and better-known schools, the wider publicity would enlist more and better athletes as well as other students.

The Charles M. Murphy Athletic Center and the Learning Resources Center, with their unique architectural designs, top the list of new facilities added to MTSU since the arrival of Scarlett. A library physical plant, computer center, Graphics Arts Building, 325-acre Stark Dairy Farm and the Hickman farm, art annex, renovated James Union Building and the Davis Science Building are other additions to the university during the Scarlett decade. Expansion of the University Center, appropriation for a music annex and improved athletic facilities are also among Scarlett's improvements.

February 28, 1978, Scarlett told faculty, administration and students he was submitting a resignation letter for the March meeting of the Board of Regents.

Scarlett refused to comment on questions pertaining to rumors that he was being forced to resign. "I think I ought to say no comment on that question. I'm sorry, but I think I better say no comment."

Rumors of Scarlett's resignation began in December in the Nashville Banner. The Nashville Banner reported that Scarlett was being forced to resign in order for former Governor Ray Blanton to appoint Sam Ingram as president of MTSU.

"The world's poorest kept secret," was Scarlett's explanation of his resignation.

Scarlett said that MTSU had the opportunity to go beyond its present scope and become "more than a regional university."

Scarlett called upon the "university family" to dedicate themselves to serving the students. "I hope I see this helping of students from wherever I am," the president said.

"We could really be a great university. I want you to turn back to being a great university."

With the help of President Scarlett, MTSU has become a great university and we, the students of MTSU, wish to thank Dr. Scarlett for his help and concern of MTSU's climbing toward the top in providing a university that offers an atmosphere of both educational and social enlightenment.

Um-Um Good!

"The special today is country style steak, green beans, mashed potatoes with gravy, tossed salad, homemade rolls and lemon icebox pie."

Serving approximately 1,000 customers every day except Sunday, when it is closed, the City Cafe continues to offer service and food that can not compare with other restaurants.

Located at 107 E. Main Street, the City Cafe is known primarily for steaming homemade rolls that ooze with butter.

"Our lemon icebox pie and rolls are what brings everyone back," Jane Gordon, a waitress for the past three years at the City Cafe, boasted. "But I think we have a lot to do with it because people like coming in everyday and having the same waitress."

Among the City Cafe's many regular customers is one who have been going there for 23 years.

"Vera Jackson comes in here three times a day every day except Saturday. She sits at the same table and in the same seat," Miss Gordon proclaimed. "If she doesn't get her regular seat at first when she comes in, she will go around the table to each seat when it is vacated until the person sitting in her seat leaves. She will then move her food, drink, coat and whatever she has to that seat."

Miss Jackson is very special to the employees of the City Cafe, but other important and special people have made their appearance at this famous restaurant.

Many well-known citizens have been served by the City Cafe, including Porter Waggoner, Lamar Alexander, Jake Butcher, Jerry Reed and Charlie Daniels.

"I waited on Norm Woodel (Eye On The Road reporter for Chanel Five in Nashville) one time and I didn't know who he was. He was acting a fool over the Hawaiian salad," Miss Gordon recalled. "He wanted to know what it was and I guaranteed him it would make him do the hula and it just got crazier from there on. I didn't even know who he was until I turned on the news that night. I nearly died."

"We get all kinds of people in here, from the country club people to VA patients, but 80 percent are college students, Mrs. Ernest Watson, owner of the Restaurant, explained.

Mrs. Watson attributed her successful business to her husband.

"My husband, Ernest, used to be a baker. After we came here he always wanted to make homemade rolls and one day they just started making them and we will never quit unless we go out of business" she disclosed.

Many changes have taken place since the opening of the popular restaurant in 1957.

"We have changed waitresses, cooks and almost everything else, especially the prices.

Vegetables plates were 35 cents

when we opened, but now they are $1.35, and chicken was 56 cents and now is $2.25," Mrs. Watson noted. "But there are some things we will never change."

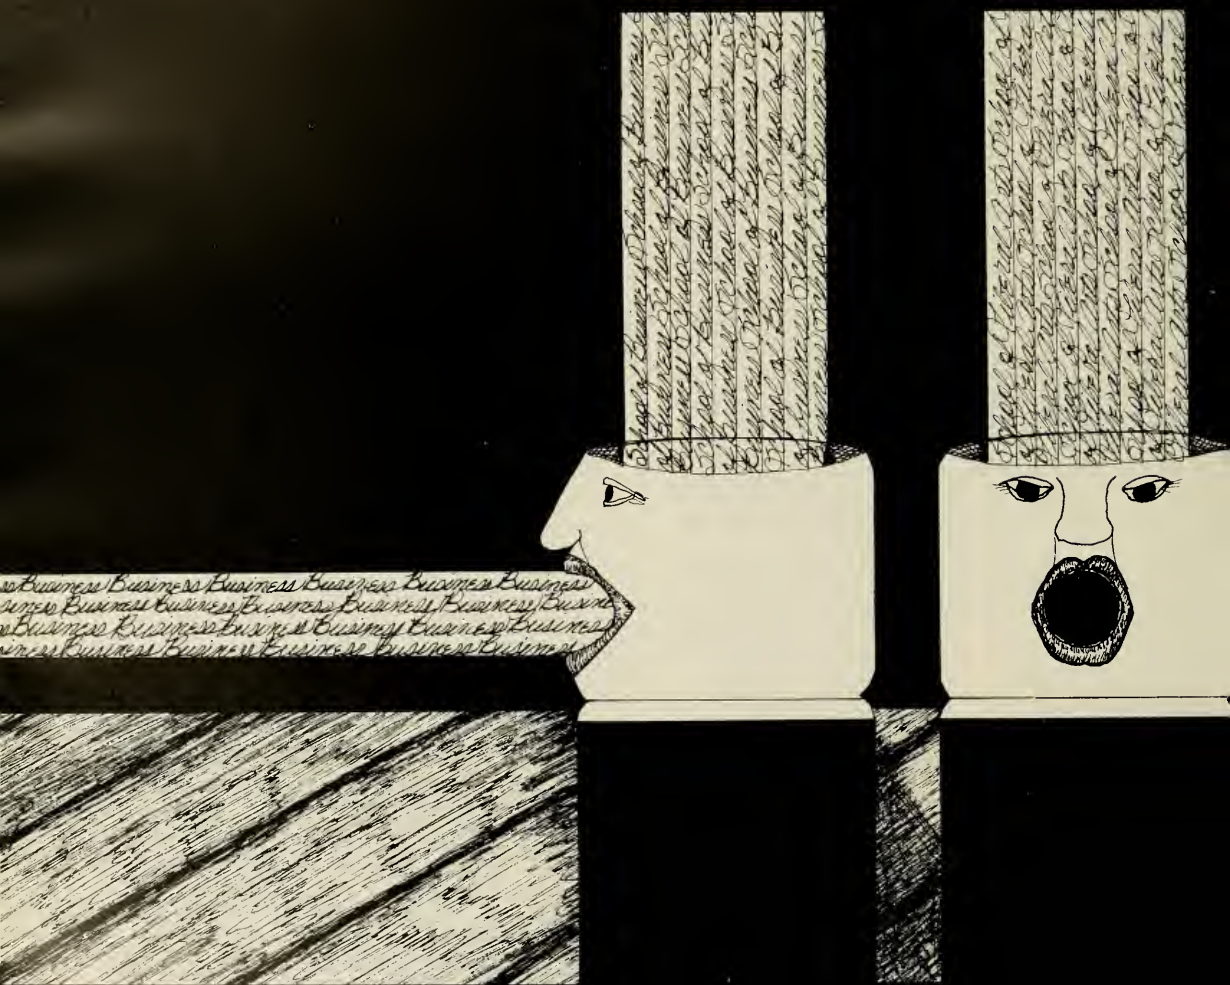

She said that the location of the restaurant and being closed on Sundays will always remain the same.

"It just wouldn't be same if we changed locations. We'll never leave here," she emphasized. Mrs. Watson recalled that the City Cafe has never been open on a Sunday. "That's the only day we have off. My staff and myself just couldn't handle it. It would be just too much work," she contended.

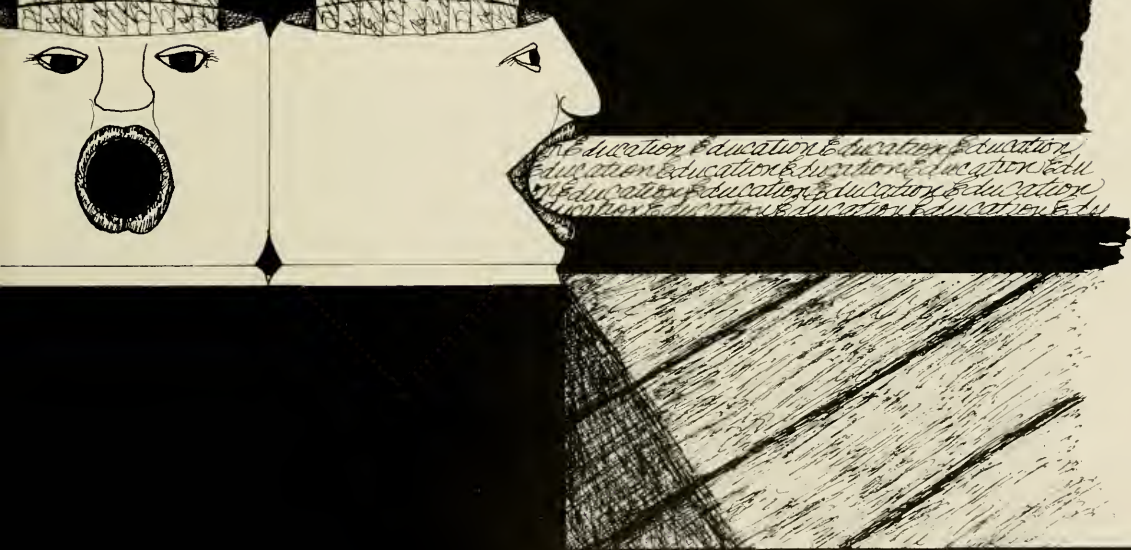

The City Cafe has seen many changes throughout its existence in Murfreesboro, but many more are foreseeable since Mrs. Watson boasts that she will be in business for many years to come.

My advisor said they start with accounting basics the first semester to acquire enough knowledge about the subject to figure up all those credit hours for data processing. I thought this was a four year program. I'll probably be here for six. Maybe I could finish in five if I give up sleeping

Illustrative focal points of this demanding field are auditing, taxes, budgets, cost control, and computer data processing. Students prepare to enter private, public, and governmental accounting positions.

Accounting And Information Systems

Aerospace

The Department of Aerospace expands to meet the needs of a growing industry. A new program emphasis, Maintenance Management provides supervisory training for those in the mechanical aspect of aviation.

Students prepare for careers as air traffic controllers, pilots, mechanics, and various positions with commercial and private transportation companies. Some students aim toward employment with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration or military careers. Boasting one of the top rated aerospace programs in the United States, Middle Tennessee State University attracts students from all areas of the country.

Agriculture

Cultivation of basic substances vital for perpetuation of human existence — food.

Agriculture at Middle Tennessee State University is more than that. Economics, ecology, and technology clarify the perspective of productivity. Yet, the students and faculty in this department realize the importance of their careers and society's dependence upon their work. Agriculture comes natural to many students here, because living off the land has been the pursuit of their families for years.

Often we take for granted the extra hours of sleep we get each morning while agriculture majors and departmental personnel are up early to feed and care for the animals. Nor do we survey farmers' financial losses when we complain about the rising cost of groceries.

Sensitivity to the risks and rewards of the agrarian lifestyle is basic to our survival.

Art

Art is ubiquitous in our lives. It substantiates its presence in our environment through building design, entertains us in the galleries, attracts us as consumers in the form of jewelry, informs us through graphics, and provides a stage for our imagination and a theatre for self expression.

Throughout the year, the Department of Art offers workshops for the community in the areas of pottery, jewelry, macrame, and other mediums.

Workshops especially for children provide teaching experiences for art education students and foster creativity as well as an early introduction to the world of art for the children.

The Gallery Program provides a community service to this area. Painters Neilwald and George MacNeil, sculptor Richard Hunt, and video artist Willard Rosenquist are only a few of the artists who exhibit their work here.

Art majors find employment as studio artists, teachers, commercial artists and designers.

Biology

No. Anaphase is not Star Buck's girlfriend on the Battleship Galactica.

You won't find golgi bodies in PLAYBOY.

DNA is not an insurance company.

These are just a few of the spectacular discoveries you can make in the biology department.

Biology classes prepare students for careers as well as help non-majors become aware of physical and environmental processes. When we read literature on cell reproduction, for example, we need to be knowledgeable of the issue from a scientific standpoint to adequately make the choices necessary for our futures.

The Department of Biology now offers a new resource for study. Students at Middle Tennessee State University in Marine Biology have access to the Gulf Coast Marine Laboratory in Mississippi. New faculty in bacteriological studies and new equipment in immunology augment student opportunities.

BDOM

Do you realize what you go through when you live with a Business Education major? They type all night. The closet door will not open all the way because of the box of twelve dozen rolls of calculator tape for the electric model. The desk drawer comes unglued from the strain of one thousand 9-volt batteries for the pocket calculator. Consumer law books sit around trying to disguise themselves as coffee tables. Instead of asking you to clean up your part of the room, you receive a copy of The Organization Man for your birthday.

The Department of Business Education advocates a concentration of basic business skills as tools and literacy in economics, business procedures, consumerism, and administration. Curricula encompasses distributive education teaching programs, office management, and advanced office skills.

Chemistry And Physics

Gaschromatograph. Does that blow your mind? It's just a name for a useful machine that does something very relevant to our lives. Simply, it is used for analysis to separate mixtures into their components. Chemistry and physics are often dismissed as "not pertaining to me right now." But it permeates our existence. Bread rising in the oven and wine fermenting in the vat are practical examples. Professional examples are industrial quality control, pollution detection, food additive analysis, metal composition, and medical technology.

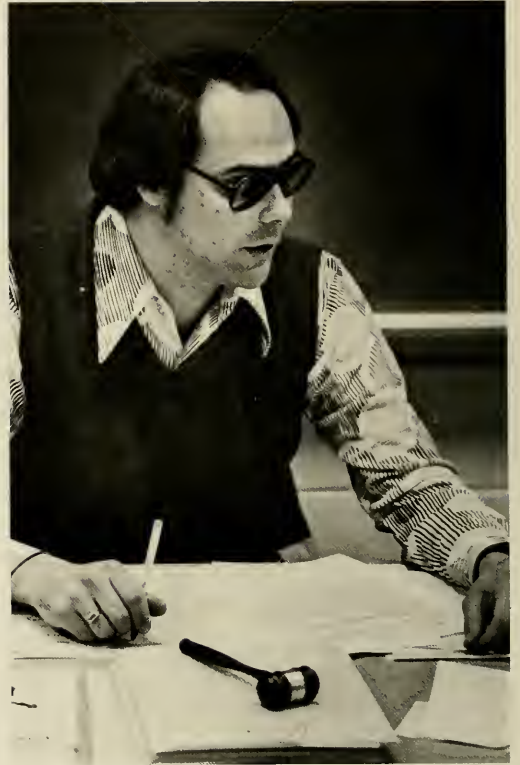

Chemistry and physics offer a wide horizon for an awareness of the makeup of our world, and enhances the ability to evaluate the environment and use it advantageously.

The department provides excellent opportunities for research, preventing stagnation of interest while fostering growth of professional literature. Basic research is ongoing to add to the body of general knowledge. Practical research is conducted to design new or more efficient or immediate use in society.

Whether examining the enzyme level in crayfish or analyzing the content of pesticides, the department is well equipped to deal with all aspects, simple and complex.

Often viewed as prerequisite study for health careers, chemistry and physics are ends in themselves with positions in industry, education, and government agencies.

Criminal Justice Administration

The Criminal Justice Department encapsulates their diversified career possibilities into a statement which emphasizes their philosophical framework: Criminal Justice is people working with people. Criminal Justice majors find jobs in law enforcement on local, state, and federal levels, in the court system, and in corrections.

Professionalization of law enforcement personnel has evolved from interdisciplinary course of study. Laboratory experts need science background. Readiness for knowledge of human relations comes through study of psychology and sociology. Clerical operations would call for business courses.

However, let us not forget Miranda and all those cases we lost sleep over. Oh, yea — Wasn't that your roommate last year who forgot where he left all that beer?

Economics And Finance

Where can your interest earn the best money? Try a major in Economics and Finance. However, you'll face a costly penalty if your interest is withdrawn prior to the maturity date. Day-to-day interest deposit is preferable and most profitable. Before opening an account, ask the institution if it issues certificates or passbooks. High interest returns guaranteed by M.B.A.

The Department of Economics and Finance designates a basic understanding of economic process as a vital part of a well rounded education.

Surely the taxes we pay, the manner in which they are allocated for redistribution, and the state of economy of our country would stir our interest enough to enroll in a fundamental economics class as an elective.

English

Most students feel they can do without English courses when they first arrive on campus. Students tend to disbelieve the testing scores as indicators of deficiencies in reading and writing abilities. After only one semester, students learn to appreciate English as a basic tool of expression as well as an aperture for greater learning.

Cultural history of human kind is bequeathed through language skills. Without writing, great ideas would perish. Without reading, great ideas will lie idle.

Education

By the overflowing basket of jeans and shirts topped off with an abundance of laundry paraphernalia, (urged by poignant television commercials, no doubt), I assumed she was on her way to the laundry area. I had heard lots of things about living in this complex, but I had no idea of seeing such bizarre behavior. Tumbling the basket and contents to the ground, she began jumping from one place to another, cupping her hands close to the ground with each landing. Slightly blunt and somewhat nosey, I approached her.

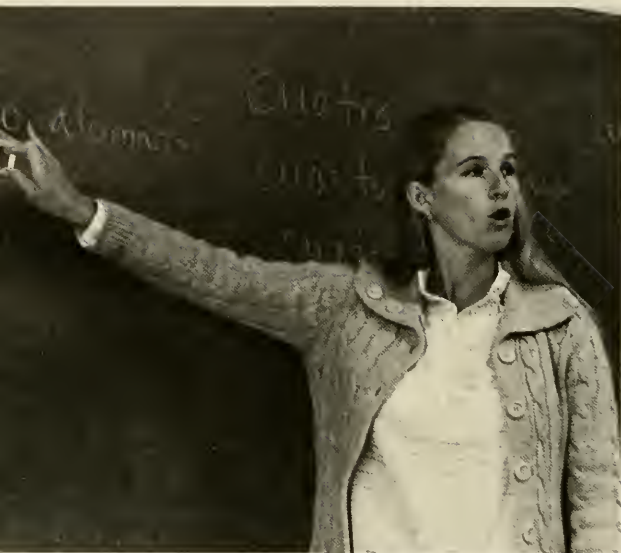

"What's with you, lady?"

"I'm trying to catch this grasshopper. I need it for my science methods class in education."

I felt relieved to hear a rational explanation and pleased to find a motivated student. As we talked, she enlightened me on all the projects and activities required in education courses, preparing students for the ultimate task — student teaching. These courses are more than philosophical theories. Applicable methods, psychological patterns of interaction, and a well rounded academic knowledge gathering process characterize the education department.

Middle Tennessee State University was founded as a school for teachers. The Education Department has diversified, specialized, and traditionally carries on the task of providing opportunities for students preparing to teach in elementary schools, secondary schools, and working in special education capacities, library service, supervision, and educational administration.

Education as an institution generates philosophies for growth structure which know no zenith.

Foreign Language

Foreign language majors indulge themselves in an unparalleled discourse. Culture, cooking, dress, and customs reflect the humanistic side of the study of foreign language. Examination of literature, films and history enhance the challenge of learning to speak, write and experience another culture.

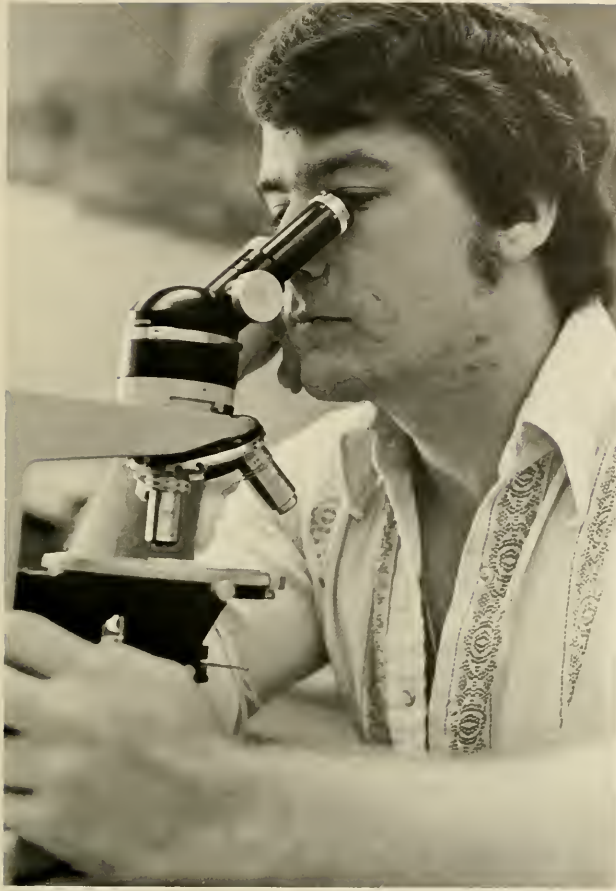

Whether the student is planning to teach, interpret, travel, or just become aware, foreign language courses offer a vital insight, accentuating the ability to understand the world through better communication.

Geography And Earth Science

If the Department of Geography and Earth Science had a marquee on its office door, it would most likely read: Now Showing — Satellite Mapping. A new and unlimited field, accelerating quickly, exemplifies the department's adaptive pace with a computer-oriented world. What does this mean to you? If you are worried about the energy, satellite mapping will aid in identifying ore deposits, geothermal areas, oil and gas potentials. If you are worried about eating, crop disease and prospective yield can be determined. Water sources, down to one mile in diameter, can be detected from 570 miles up in the air. The ocean can be scanned for food supply. Pollution can be located in time to correct the situation. See? We might make it to 2000 A.D. after all.

History

History fosters the cultivation of knowledge of our predecessors and cultural heritage. It enlightens the ideologies we have inherited and provides new perspectives through research, restoration, and preservation. The History Department recognizes the convergence of culture, economics, demography, religion, education, technology, and philosophy as the foremost factors of change and presents objective and thorough coverage through a variety of media.

Students are inspired to seek local resources to enhance interest and gain firsthand knowledge of Tennessee history. One of the best sources, sometimes overlooked, are the descendants of the people whose values molded the past of Tennesseans. Studies of the roles played by immigrants and various ethnic populations give us insight to the role of the United States as the "melting pot" of cultures and advocate of human rights.

The department's Historic Preservation emphasis trains students for professional careers in preservation planning and promotes an awareness of the potentiality for the study of history in the public school classroom.

Dr. James Huhta is Director of the Historical Preservation Program here at Middle Tennessee State University and serves as the Chairman of the National Council for Historic Preservation Education.

HPERS

A synthesis of mind and body equates the program of the Health, Physical Education, Recreation, Safety Department.

Rigorous activity for health, concepts for the mind, recreation for the psychological well-being as well as the fun of it, and safety for awareness constitute a balanced program here at Middle Tennessee State University.

Benefits of physical education stem far beyond the anatomical aspect. Social interaction in team sports and public relations with the community highlight the other side of the HPERS program.

Through required courses all students are acquainted with a wide variety of activities and are encouraged to develop skills and pursue the objectives of increased strength and endurance to improve health and realize the importance of leisure.

Professional courses for HPERS majors are geared toward teaching and recreational supervision.

Home Economics

Those three hour labs are stress tests incognito. By the way, so are those long walks in the snow to get to class. Once I figured it out ... if I walk briskly on Tuesdays and Thursdays, burning X number of calories per meter, I should be able to lose enough weight to get into that outfit that is going to cost X number of dollars that I will save in gas ...

By providing instruction and opportunities for learning through experience, the Home Economics department seeks to augment resources for the enrichment of individual and family life. Home Economics prepares men and women for careers in consumer services, early childhood education, nutrition, merchandise management, interior design, and vocational home economics education. These various career opportunities are the culmination of numerous interdisciplinary courses.

Industrial Studies

Slowly moving his fingers over the graceful, curvaceous beauty brought to maturity like a work of art by his own hand, he felt proud. The solemn expression on his face turned gently to a smile as he imagined someday passing on his knowledge and experience to another who would encounter the apprehensive moments and final joy he had known.

A voice broke the silence. "That's a fine table leg. You are developing a pride in your work typical of most aspiring young teachers. Your students will see that quality in you right away."

Creativity reflected in the finished product is a hallmark of Industrial Studies. Design, materials handling, and mathematical calculations accent laborious pre-engineering and pre-architecture programs. Employment opportunities include teaching, industrial technology, and related management positions.

Management majors find themselves wading through a myriad of case problems, trying to make that managerial, rational decision. "It is the principle of the thing that counts. More money must be put into these things for the student's welfare."

"I agree, but we must have guidelines for setting our priorities."

"Having the functional authority to make such a decision unlocks the way for a wide course of action. Given the various controls and extenuating alternatives, we can focus on the immediate gain, thereby offsetting deferred inevitable implications."

"If your decision is final, I'll have to support you in it."

"Then it is settled. We will skip the plant tour and go to the grill and check out the opposite sex."

Marketing involves monitoring the flow of goods and services from manufacturers to consumers. Advertising plays the leading role.

"Hello. Yes, this is Push 'N Plug Ad Agency. Yes, we do handle their accounts. Of course, we refute any claims that the meat is not one hundred percent! What do you mean one hundred percent what? Certainly you don't think we were implying . . ."

Sometimes it is a rough way to go but marketing techniques handle a large part of every consumer dollar.

Mass Communications

We live in a environment. Its impact besieges our daily lives and leaves its mark on the theories of the social forces which shape our lives. The power of the mass media is very evident and ranks with the family, education, and religion as an indicator of norm structure.

Middle Tennessee State University is one of a few, if not the only unviwersity which incorporates Mass Communication courses into its general educational requirements, an apparent testimonial to our innovative faculty.

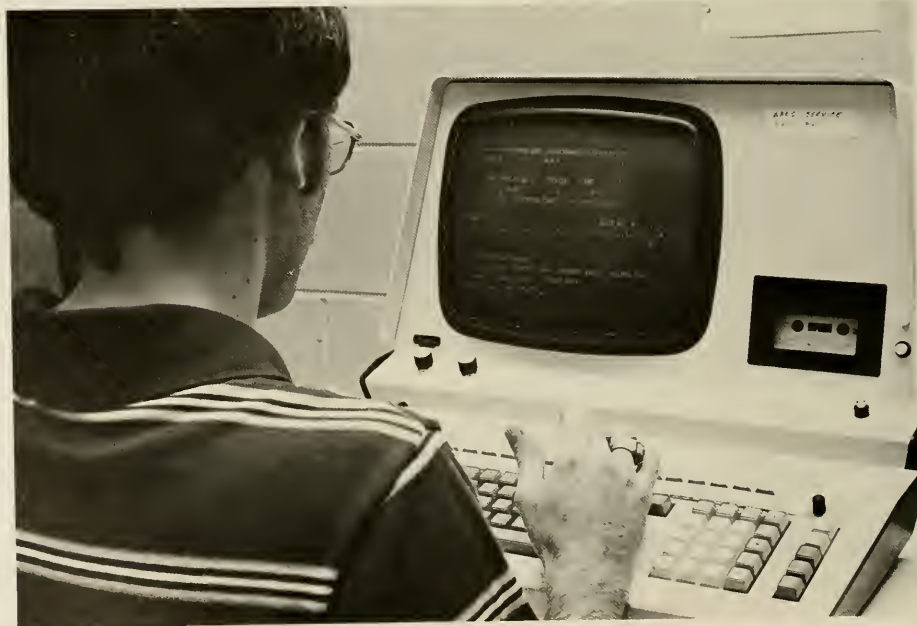

The Mass Communications Department prepares men and women for professional positions in the area of television, radio, print media, public relations, advertising, and recording industry management. It is an advancing department, keeping pace with a growing and competitive industry. Compared with other nations, its sophistication is unparralelled and the growth potential is enormous due to its theoretical foundation, advocacy of the First Amendment.

Mathematics And Computer Science

Synonymously relevant to a progressive, verbally fluent society such as ours, math and computer science are chronometrically paired to educate future teachers, programmers, and statisticians. Computers are such an integral part of our lives now that very few jobs escape their impact. Due to increasing technology, data is increasing at rates beyond imagination. Students at Middle Tennessee State University articulate the language of the sciences for use today and reference tomorrow.

Computers can sing, make decorative placemats for tables, or transform a T-shirt into a good place to hang a picture. I knew those math and computer science majors couldn't stay sane doing all that straight stuff.

Military Science

"I know they have been trained for this, but I just can't imagine women on survival maneuvers, living off rations and managing with limited articles packed in a shoe polish can."

"Yea, I know what you mean. Have you seen all that stuff they pack into those Datsuns just to go home for two days?"

"And you wouldn't believe all the food my date put away last Friday night. It was lucky for me we were at one of those smorgasbord places, or I could have been in rough financial shape. Wait 'til they dig into those ration cans. They'll see why they are called 'rations'."

"If the women make it through this weekend, I'll be shocked."

I heard a rumor that some visiting CO is coming to inspect and maybe even go along for the duration. He will show them what military life is about."

"You men over there — come over here and meet Lieutenant Colonel Stevens. She will be the Evaluating CO for the maneuvers this weekend."

Music

The halls of Fine Arts are filled with different sounds coming from the practice rooms. Music can be a lot of fun, but for the serious musician it is hard work. While they may not have the volume of homework students in other majors have, time spent in practice can be grueling.

Practice sessions at five a.m. are not unusual. It takes a special kind of discipline, commonly called enjoyment of work and desire for perfection, to devote long hours to practice.

Various performing groups include Concert Choir, Concert Band, Jazz Ensemble, and Orchestra. Performing together attributes to the close knit atmosphere of musicians. Work is as common a topic for conversation as the physical exhaustion derived from it. Professional performing is the idee fixe of music majors. Various careers also await in private instruction, teaching, and instrument repair.

Nursing

After waiting all summer, one week before school begins applicants find out they have been admitted to the nursing program. Try not to faint on the first day at the hospital. Miss lab twice and there will be loads of extra work — be there! Why is it that the book you really understand usually isn't the one where the assignment is found. Books are heavy in content and weight.

Nursing students are constantly on the go. They need proper nutrition and rest. That is hard to get when you study until three A.M. and go to six hours of lab at 7:30 the next day.

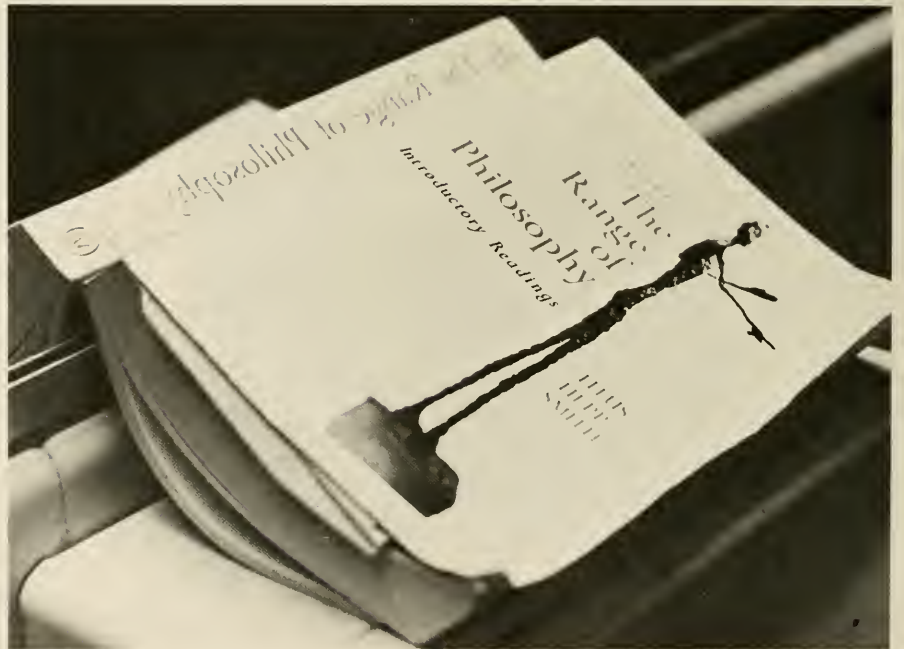

One of the hardest things for a new student is reading the doctor's writing. but doesn't everyone know what QID means?

Looking back on the five semesters it takes to complete the program, the only thing ahead is the board exams.

One of the first things new students learn is respect for the teachers. They are always around at the hospital, in class, how do they do it?

When caring for a patient, the accomplishments outweigh the books.

Lines Written After Class In Philosophy 100

Charlotte Ross

And when the universe is dead,
 What then, my brother, can be said
 Of Life, of Death, Eternity,
 And things when none is left to see?
 The light is dimmed; the star grows dark —
 And all is ended with a spark.
 The universe is cold and bare —
 The mind of man, no longer there.
 The questing, puzzled strife is gone;
 No new tomorrows ever dawn.
 Time whirls unlimited through Space,
 No thought is left to give it chase,
 As on the cooling planet rools,
 Devoid of all its festering souls,
 And in the infinite grown cold —
 What are the answers left untold?

Political Science

The Political Science Department offers program emphasis in Pre-Law, Urban Planning, International Relations, and Public Administration.

Urban Planning germinates from needs created by our increasingly mobile and growing population. Guiding urban growth and planning for the future needs includes matching resources, and funds to needs of population, analysis of economic aspects, policy formation, and utilization of social programs.

Goal-oriented Pre-Law students endeavor to work under a strenuous core program to meet requirements for Law school.

International Relations majors prepare for work abroad employed by corporations or the government.

The study of thoughts, feeling, and emotions as a definition of psychology is only the beginning.

The department of psychology orients its program around general education, service to the community, and professional standards of counseling and working directly with people in therapeutic capacities.

Psychology concerns everyone. Traditionally, laymen have thought of psychology as a cure-all for the more seriously deranged misfits of society. Today, in addition to personality, psychology studies personnel output in industry, group behavior, interaction, environmental manipulation as a therapeutic end, intelligence, learning, memory, and normal as well as abnormal behavior.

Psychology

"What! No couch?"

"No couch.

I suppose you thought I would have squinty eyes, too."

"Yes, and rub your chin a lot as I talked."

"I won't even take notes if it bothers you."

"It's just that I expected a Freudian type."

"Oh."

"Stereotypes and all that."

"Would you like to sit down?"

"Thanks. I've been thinking about coming here for a long time."

"Really?"

"Things just kept getting in my way."

"Things?"

"Yes. But a friend of mine was coming here, so I thought I might as well come too and get it over with."

"OK, where would you like to begin?"

"Would you sign my Jr.-Sr. forms?"

Sociology And Anthropology

Service and understanding through examination are the substance of the Sociology and Anthropology Department. Students prepare for the universal task of dealing with people and gain a clearer perspective of the forces which shape our lives through study in diverse focal areas.

Accreditation of the social work program by the Council on Social Work Education was a major achievement for the department this year. Goals of this program are oriented toward acquisition of professional skills, knowledge, and attitudes to work toward development of human potential and promote cohesive relationships between people and their environments.

Broadening opportunities for anthropologists, the Environmental Protection Act provides for, at the state and federal level, for approval by an anthropologist before excavation for major construction. The anthropologist must examine the location to certify the absence of primitive and historical sites on the location.

Speech And Theater

The Middle Tennessee State University Speech and Theater Department prepares students for exciting careers in many fields. The department has three main academic disciplines: speech communications, theater and speech and hearing therapy. All three fields point in directions of promising and interesting occupations.

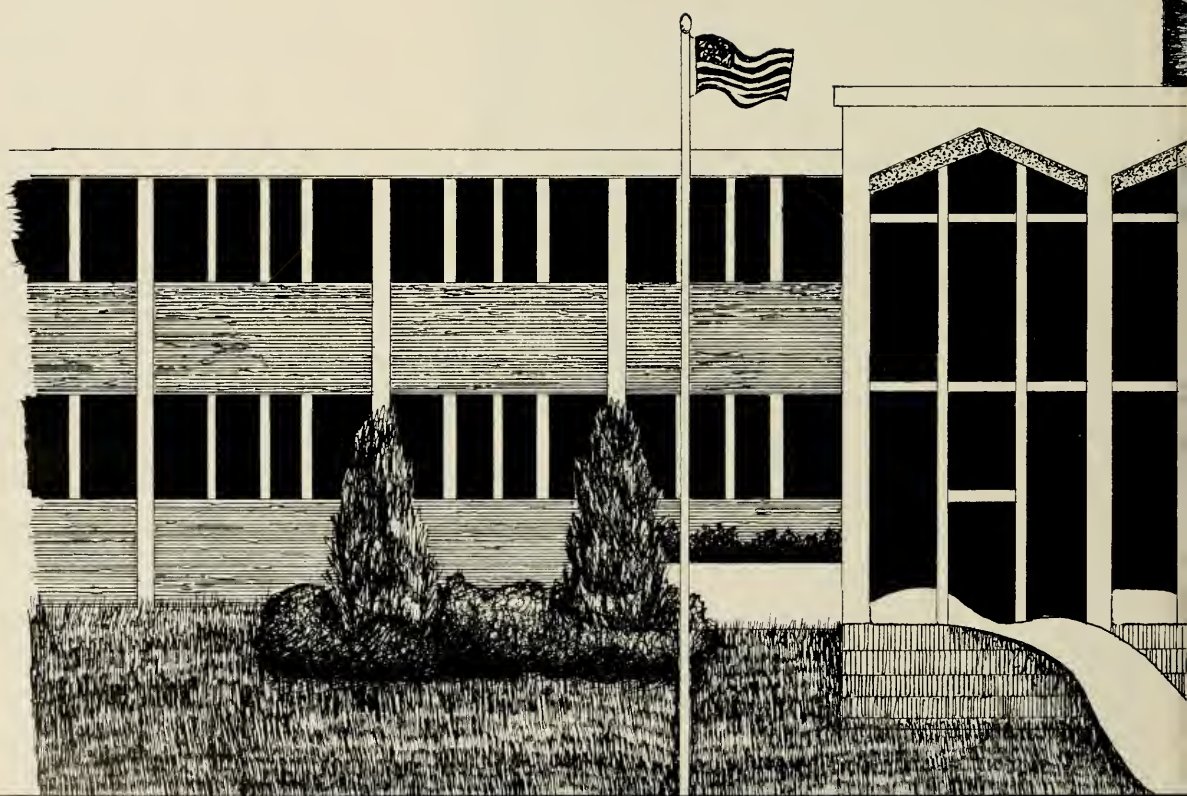

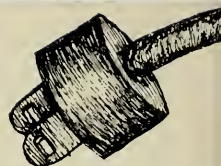

A national debate tournament is held on campus as a means of recruiting new members. The tournament not only gives debaters experience it also helps sublize the forensics on campus and serves as a means of recruiting students for the forensics program.

"To be or not to be" can be heard echoing through the halls of the Dramatic Arts Auditorium. The students involve themselves in four major productions a year. These productions are not limited to people in the speech and theater department. A touring show which travels around the country performing is a good means of public relations for the department as well as for the university.

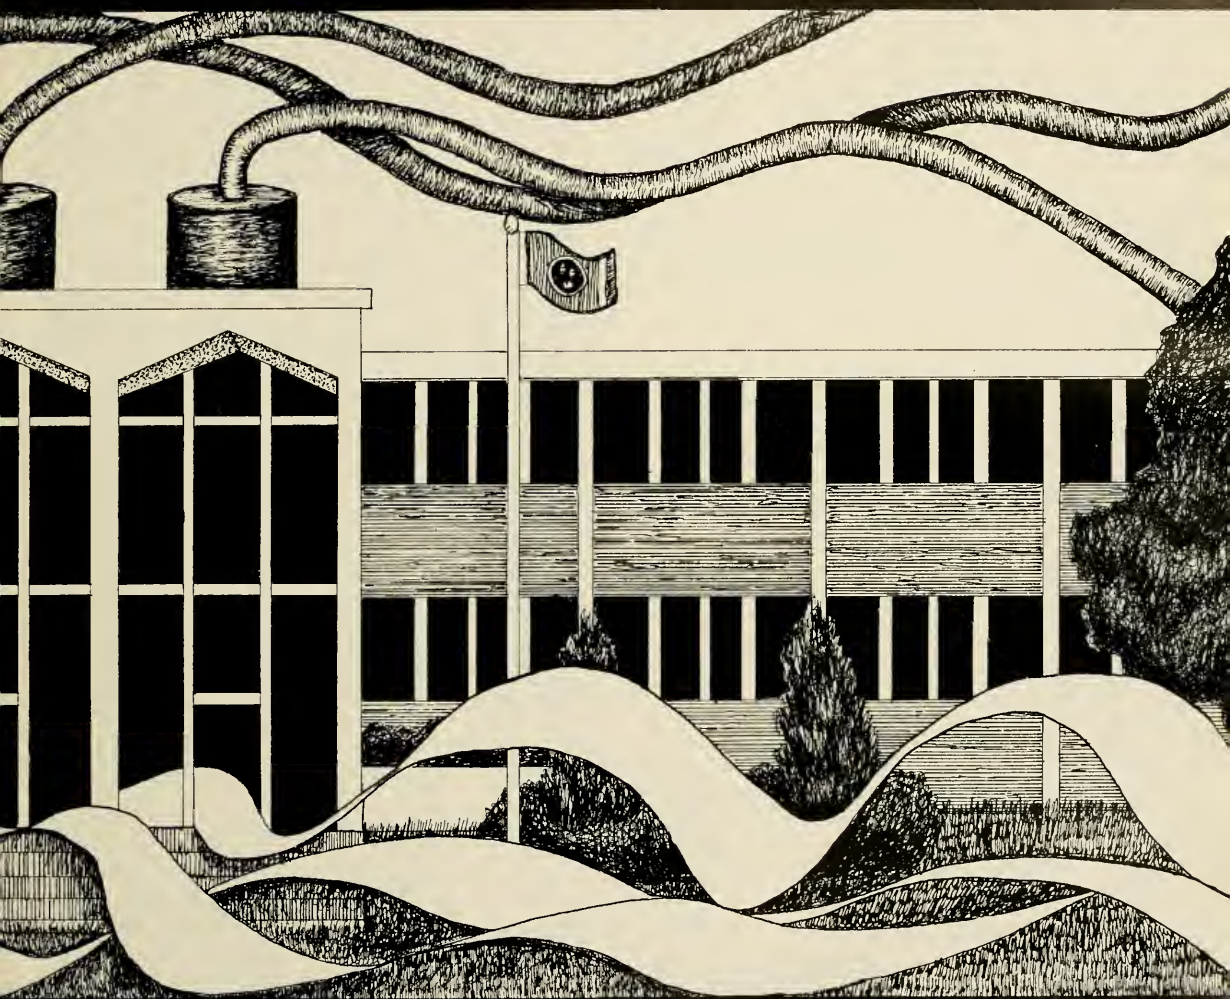

Programs in the speech and hearing therapy discipline are student-oriented. These programs serve the community and help the major.

Dr. Sam Ingram Returns To MTSU

When Dr. Sam Ingram accepted the office of president at Middle Tennessee State University, he emphasized that one of his first actions would be to meet with faculty members, administrative staff and students in order to learn as much about the university, the staff and the students "as quickly as possible."

President Ingram has met with many organizations this semester such as the Concerned Faculty and Administrative Women, Chamber of Commerce and many students. Ingram has also met with department heads to tour the departments.

Ingram said another important goal as president of MTSU is to strengthen MTSU's ties with Murfreesboro and other communities.

Ingram told the Chamber of Commerce in a January 30, 1979 meeting that his second goal was improving the efficiency of operation. He said that improving the efficiency of present programs would save money since it was not very likely of getting significant funding from the legislature.

Ingram noted early in his administrative term that his third goal was reducing administrative cost. Ingram suggested asking faculty to take some administrative responsibility instead of the university adding more administrative staff.

Improving the quality of university programs was noted as Ingram's fourth goal. Ingram said the university sometimes becomes so involved in attempting to attract students that the quality of programs are sometimes forgotten. President Ingram came to MTSU after holding the position of commissioner of Tennessee's Department of Education. He was also a member of former Gov. Ray Blanton's cabinet.

Dr. Ingram comes to us as a talented and experienced man in the field of education. He has many plans and goals toward furthering the progress of education at MTSU. There is no doubt that he will accomplish his goals in making MTSU a superlative university.

This year has been the best of my college career. I have met so many people, done so much and generally felt important. Some days, I've felt that the job wasn't worth it but thinking about the book has helped me to get back to work and forget that things didn't always go as planned.

Some of you who are reading this will be looking for your name as people who made this job difficult. Surprise — I wouldn't give you the satisfaction of knowing that you made this job rough. There are many persons, however, who aided me in putting this book together. I would like to mention them because I feel that they deserve some type of recognition. In no particular order, they are: Sherrian Huddleston and the Office of Admissions and Records, Polly Gilpin, Pat Casey Daley, Bill Ray, Jerry "S.E.G." Williamson, Lisa "Foxy Lady" Human, Larry "Flipper" McCormack, Frank Wm., Jeff Ellis, Paul Cantrell, Betty Smithson, Mrs. Wilma Grant, Dean Robert MacLean, Myron and the Van Dells, John Denver, Johnny Lovier (for answering questions, helping my staff and being there when I needed him), Paul Vaughn Studios (especially Sarah, Virginia, Arlene, Tommy and Little Paul), Dean Judy Smith, Harold Smith, (for letting my photographers be where they needed to be), Georgia Dennis, Terry Burkhalter, Steve Thurman, Mike "McMac" McDonald, Dr. Mary Raye Denton, City Cafe (for serving good food — I was so busy I never got to go home and eat Mom's cooking), Donut Country U.S.A. and Krystal, Robin Rudd, Debbie Bush, Bill Cook, Don Closson, Cindy Hicks, Jamie Adams, Charles Gonce, Linda Corley, Freddy Falcon (for getting me where I needed to be), the Commodores, LTD's "Jam", Compugraphic 7200, Kenny Rogers, Kris and Barbra, Typographics and Chuck Powell, Jewell Hill, Shortstop, Batey's University Bookstore, Broad St. Pizza Hut (for letting me work when I could), Linda Lovier, Cindy Langford (for the fantastic artwork on the cover and in the book), Dot Harrison, Johnny's code-a-phone, Jerry's parents and their molasses, William H. Bowman, cherry picker, Cathy Wood, Doyle Parham, Suma Clark, Jim Norton and his photojournalism class, Sarah Lancaster, Dr. Kimbrell, Mrs. Poole and her lectures on love and life, Roger Baugh, Gary Clemmons, John Blubaugh, Avery Smith, American Yearbook Company, Houston, New Orleans, Pat O'Briens, Lamar Alexander Victory Party and Inauguration, maintenance department (shelf builders and book movers), Sandra Walkup, Timb Hamilton, Dr. Himebaugh and his feature writing class, the University Police Department (especially Don), pinball machines, the Student Publications Board, Vice-President LaLance, Annabelle Bourne, Steve Martin, Saturday Night Live, Mrs. Camp and all of my day care kids, June McCash, Dr. Scarlett — the best, Wats Line, my terrific staff — Darlene, Vivian (good luck next year), Cheryl, Ella, Debbie D., Cindy C., Cindy H., Melanie, my parents and sisters, and most important to me — David.

If you have muddled through this I would like to thank you, the reader, for buying a yearbook. With your money we were able to implement a new type of cover design and to include more color in the book. I hope you enjoy what you have purchased.

Honor Classes Offer Challenge

It all began in 1973 with the formation of an ad-hoc committee appointed by Dr. M.G. Scarlett, and from that moment the Honors program at MTSU hasn't slowed down. In the fall of that year, the program officially started and June McCash was appointed director and still remains so. McCash points out that the program seeks to provide opportunities to superior students for intellectual challenge and growth beyond the scope of the average university classroom. "What we try to do is offer these advantages to the superior student that aren't always possible within the regular university curriculum," McCash said. But that's not all the Honors program offers. For those students directly involved, a format for closer intellectual interaction between faculty and students is provided, McCash stressed. "We provide an opportunity for those students who are capable of participating in our program a chance to associate and interact more closely with their peers," McCash said.

One of the biggest advantages of the program is that it provides for the individualization of programs.

The Honors program is more than just a group of students meeting. There are special activities that set it apart from the regular curriculum. There are picnics and parties along with workshops plus meeting such nationally known personalities as Nobel Prize winner Dr. George Beadle or playwright Edward Albee. The Honors program, along with the music and history departments, sponsored the Madrigal dinner last fall. It was a 15th century banquet with traveling acrobats, madrigal singers, a wandering minstrel and a court jester. The decor of the event was holly and ivy while the floor was decorated with palms and small shrubs. Adding to the beauty of the evening, a cedar Christmas tree laced with candles was also part of the decoration.

Trying to dress in the style of the 15th century, women were dressed in long velvet gowns, while men dressed in shorter ones. The menu was comprised of such delicacies as Gourdes in Potage, Henne Doore on Rice, Engurdouce of Fysse and Sallat.

Visiting high school students consult admissions materials while sitting in on an honors class.

Dr. Ronald Messier, of the history department, speaks at the Madrigal Dinner. Below, a high school student watches a slide presentation prepared to promote the Honors department.

During the dinner, a juggler, a number of musicians and a group of actors who performed Shakespeare entertained the guests. The music varied from tavern jingles to Christmas songs, common in the 15th century. Students come to the program, not just out of high school, but join later in their college career as well. Many students are invited on the basis of their ACT scores or by their class standings. Any student at MTSU with a 3.0 average or better can join the program. Some students who think they would like to join the program but don't meet the requirements can and have done so by making such a request of the Honors subcommittee. And finally, the program is also made up of transfer students who have the proper grade from the institution they previously attended. "The Honors program is a place of intellectual challenge and enrichment of students, it's something I wish we could offer to all the students of MTSU but we can't," McCash said. The bottom line of the whole program is that it offers within the scope of a large university the best of a superior small college.

Mr. And Miss MTSU

Promoting Middle Tennessee State University was Mike Kopp's main goal as the 1978-79 Mr. MTSU.

Mike said he felt that the title "Mr. MTSU" had no significance in the interest of MTSU unless responsibility was taken.

"I felt like I had a responsibility to become involved at MTSU and help promote the good name of the university," Mike said. "Titles mean nothing unless you utilize that title."

Mike is a native of San Antonio, Tex., and is very involved in intramural sports at MTSU. He is also involved in the Wesley Foundation and ASB.

Mike plans to enter the field of television broadcasting upon graduation. He is a volunteer worker at WMOT-FM at MTSU and a member of the Mass Communications Student Advisory Committee.

"It makes you want to learn more about Middle Tennessee State University," Rochelle Lafever, 1978-79 Miss MTSU, said.

Rochelle is from Murfreesboro, Tn., and said that since she was chosen as the representative for MTSU she has become more interested in the activities and opportunities available at this university.

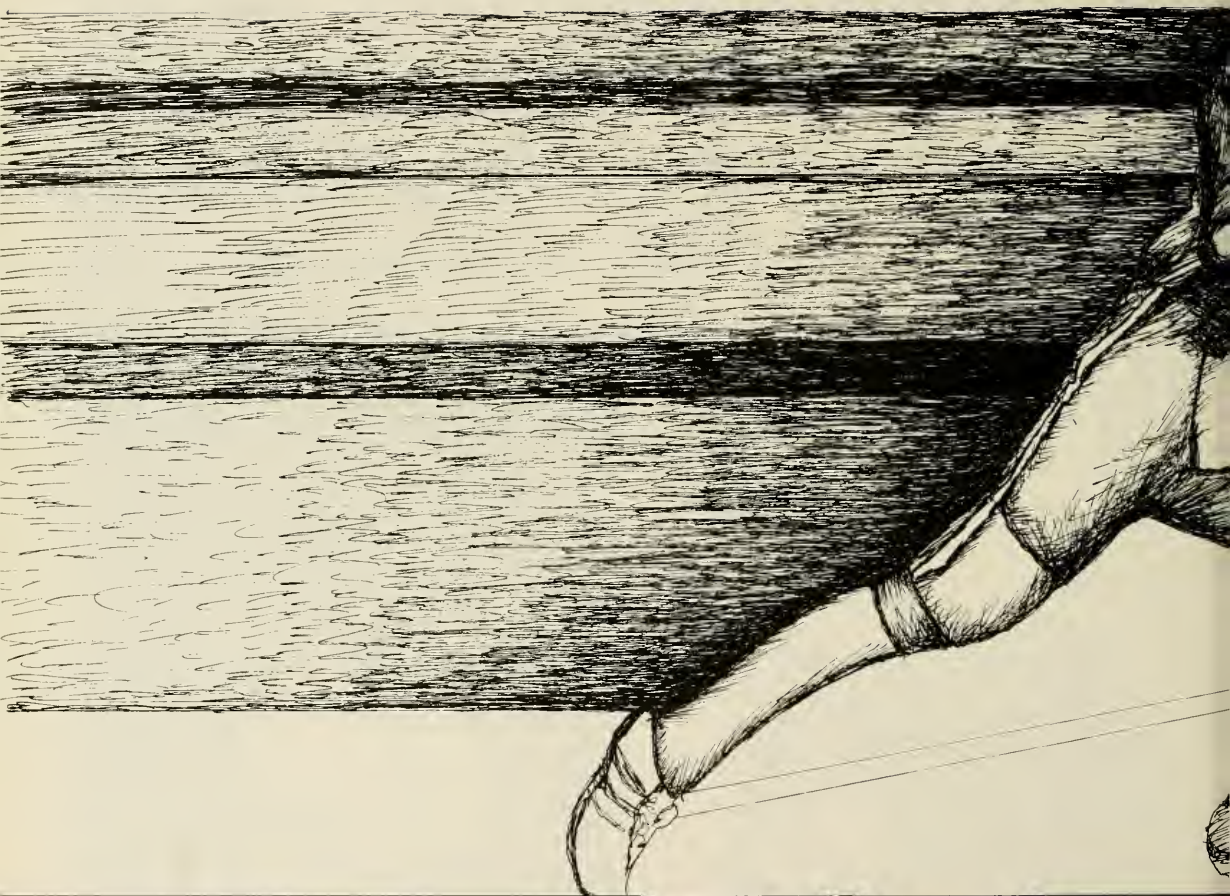

"It gave me a chance to meet new people and get involved with the university," she emphasized.

Rochelle is a member of the performing arts organization and also Alpha Delta Pi. She also participates in the Wesley Singers organization.

After being sponsored by the Alpha Delta Pi Big Brothers, Rochelle represented MTSU in the Miss Tennessee Pageant.

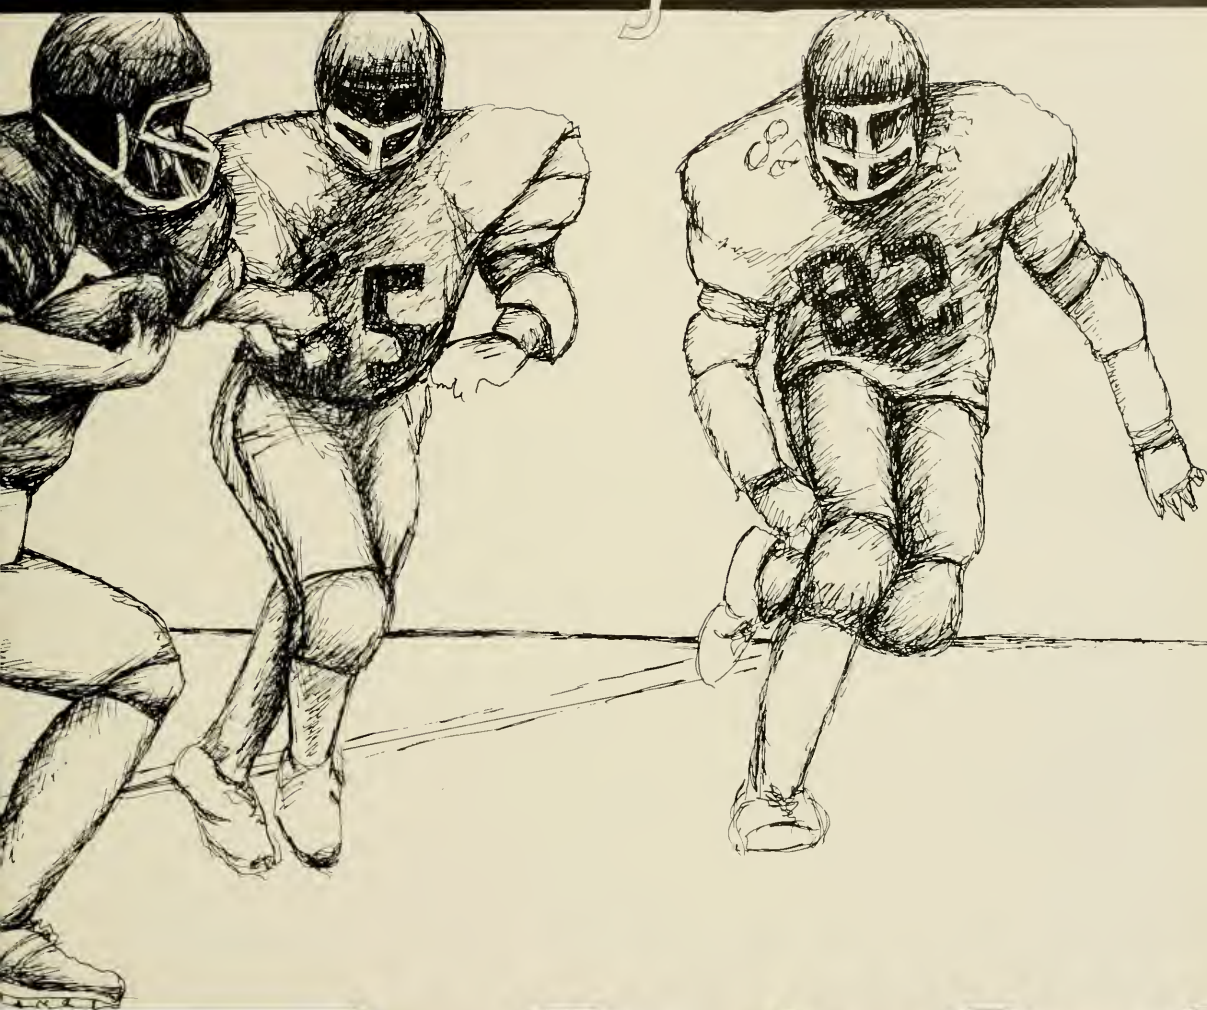

Rochelle said she feels that Miss MTSU should be responsible for aiding the university in recruiting prospective students at MTSU and added that she has recruited students this spring.

Blue Raider Football '78

Bluer Than Blue

It was a season of both ups and downs, high points and low points for the Blue Raider football program in 1978.

As has been the case of all of Ben Hurt's football teams at MTSU, the Raiders played well against the stronger teams (in some cases), and poorly against the weaker teams.

A pre-season poll of OVC coaches listed MTSU at the bottom of the conference. Some questioned this while others said that was where the team belonged. No one knew for sure, and sometimes it was hard to tell.

Middle played well against Tennessee State in the opening game at Vanderbilt's Dudley Field. The Tigers, however, proved too strong as they narrowly escaped being upset by the surprising Raiders, 13-6.

MTSU did surprise the skeptics. The defense never really broke, and thusly were dubbed the "rubber-band" defense.

After the game, Hurt praised the team by calling them a bunch of "dedicated players that want to win."

The game was perhaps overshadowed by the appearance of TSU runningback Larry Kinnebrew. Kinnebrew had been declared ineligible earlier in the week when it was discovered that his high school transcripts were incorrect. When Kinnebrew was inserted into the lineup by TSU Coach John Merritt, MTSU Athletic Director Charles "Bubber" Murphy rushed over to TSU Athletic Director Samuel Whitman in the press box and informed him the series between the two schools would be cancelled.

However, the matter was never completely resolved.

After a week's layoff, Middle met a well known foe in UT Martin on the Pacers' home field. Although MTSU lost the game, it proved invaluable to the Raider cause. The one thing (or at least one of the things) MTSU was lacking was offensive leadership from the quarterback position. Freshman redshirt Duane West stepped forward in the second half and turned the stumbling fumbling offensive unit into a moving offensive machine.

Under West's direction, the offense scored two touchdowns and a field goal. The 17 points were not enough, though, as Middle fell to UTM 28-17.

One person on defense also came forward and took the lead. Junior Stanley Wright of Memphis stood in the wings for two years, seeing action only on the special teams and spot playing. When he got his chance Wright socked opposing ball carriers to the ground 21 times to set a new MTSU record for the most unassisted tackles in one game.

For his efforts, Wright was named MTSU Defensive Player of the Week and the OVC Defensive Player of the Week.

Wright kept up the pace in MTSU's only victory of the year. MTSU dropped Morehead 9-6 on the Raider's home field. Two key interceptions by Wright assured the victory by either stopping Morehead drives or putting MTSU in scoring position.

Wright was again named MTSU Defensive Player of the Week, an honor he shared with John Diefenbach. Offensive guard Bill Ming's excellent blocking in the line was cited as the reason for his receiving the offensive player award.

The erratic and surprising play of the Raiders was evident the next week against heavily favored UT Chattanooga. The Mocs were rated as high as 20 in the nation in one pre-season poll. And, as any typical Hurt team, MTSU played extremely well against a foe who should have mopped up the turf with the Raiders.

Middle led most of the game, but UTC tied the score at 14-14 with only a minute and 20 seconds left to play in the contest.

The "rubber-band defense" broke on that drive. Earlier, however, they stopped UTC drives in the end zone with an interception and also on the six yard line. In addition, the big "D" picked up a fumble on the one, forced the Mocs into an aborted field goal attempt from the 16, and held UTC on fourth down at the 26 and 22 yard lines.

Defensive end James McClellan, who came on to play well early in the season, latches onto an opposing ball carrier and drops him for the stop.

Runningback Lonnie Adams, who dropped off of the squad early in the season, picks up a little yardage with UT Martin defenders closing in.

Runningback Lonnie Adams comes face-to-face with a UT Martin defender on a sweep around left end.

The tie was a moral victory for the Raiders but next week they were to face the Eastern Kentucky Colonels. The Colonels were considered by many to be one of the best, if not the best team in the OVC.

The next weekend in Richmond was a case of obvious emotional letdown for the MTSU team. Eastern crunched Middle 42-12.

"We knew this was a big game and we had a good practice this week but we just didn't have the emotion we previously had," said a dejected Robbie Rogers after the game.

Rogers, co-captain of the team, had his best day of the year by picking up 93 yards on the ground while his cohort in the backfield, Joe Bowers, gained 84 yards rushing.

The next Saturday evening, MTSU was to make a trek to Murray, Ky. to face the Murray Racers. It was expected that MTSU would play well, but Middle lost again, this time by the resounding score of 33-7.

Two players were put out for the season — quarterback Ricky Davis with a broken leg and torn ligaments and defensive tackle Ron Marshall with a broken hand. The Raiders lost more than the game.

MTSU returned home the next weekend to face Delaware, ranked third in the nation. The previous year, the Fightin' Blue Hens whipped the Raiders 60-7. Once again, MTSU took it on the chin and were stomped 53-3.

Following the Delaware game, Coach Ben Hurt said none of his players could have made the Delaware squad. Several of the players became upset and offensive lineman Jeff Woodard quit and blasted the coaching staff in both the local media and a Nashville newspaper. Hurt spent much of the week prior to the homecoming game with Austin Peay firing back at his critics.

On homecoming day, however, MTSU suffered delay effects of "Raider Fever." Capitalizing on mistakes by Austin Peay's offense, MTSU jumped out to a commanding 17 point lead in the first quarter.

For a change, everyone thought MTSU might win a homecoming game. But the Govs were not to be denied. Behind the superb passing attack of quarterback Steve Brewer, Peay riddled MTSU's defensive secondary and scored an unanswered 28 points to win the contest 28-17.

Once again, reports began flying around on the future

Bluer Than Blue . . .

Ben Hurt as mentor of the Blue Raider football program.

An ailing and injured MTSU team traveled to Bowling Green the next weekend to face league-leading Western Kentucky. The Hilltoppers provided all of the fireworks against the hapless Raiders and handed MTSU its worst defeat in 45 years and its worst defeat in history against an OVC foe.

Rumors began spreading that Hurt would be fired, but on the following Monday, the Raider coach announced his resignation through a prepared press release.

Athletic Director Charles "Bubber" Murphy was visibly shaken by the resignation of Hurt, who played for him while the AD was football coach in the 1950's. Murphy said, with tears swelling in his eyes, "I just hope Ben remains in coaching.

Names began popping up in all areas of the news media, but the most prominent of all was that of Boots Donnelly, former MTSU player and current head coach at Austin Peay. Donnelly refused to comment, but the rumors continued.

Through all of the turmoil and rumors surrounding the selection of a new coach, MTSU still had two games left to play on its schedule.

First off, the Raiders were to face East Tennessee in the last home game for Hurt. A dismal crowd turned out, one estimated at no more than 1000.

The game actually lasted only one play — the first. East Tennessee received the opening kickoff on the goal line, swept up the left side of the field and went on for a 100 yard TD run.

The Buccaneers kept up the rampage, and went on to crush the Raiders 34-0.

The following week, Middle traveled to Cookeville to close out what some termed as the "longest season" against rival Tennessee Tech. Tech, considered by many to be the best team in the conference before the season began, suffered several key injuries and was not a threat to Western Kentucky for the OVC championship.

The game was close until minutes before halftime when the golden Eagles reeled off three fast touchdowns to lead at intermission 28-3.

Bluer Than Blue . . .

Tech picked up another third quarter touchdown and MTSU's Jimmy Sanders picked off a pass and ran it in for the final score of the season. It only seemed fitting that the defense would score the last points. That set the margin at 35-10.

Ben Hurt's 1978 squad tied at least one record — the most losses in a single season. The results of Hurt's unsuccessful season was his resignation Nov. 6, after failing in a four year effort to revive the Raiders' sagging program.

Athletic Director Charles "Bubber" Murphy wasted no time after Hurt resigned in selecting a new head coach. On Nov. 24 James "Boots" Donnelly was named the new head football coach. He was selected out of 37 applicants, and was voted overwhelmingly by the athletic committee for the job.

Donnelly started as defensive cornerback for the Blue Raiders during his sophomore year. Murphy was head coach during that time, leading the Raiders to seasons of 8-2, 7-2-1 and 10-0, winning the Ohio Valley Conference Championship in 1964 and 1965.

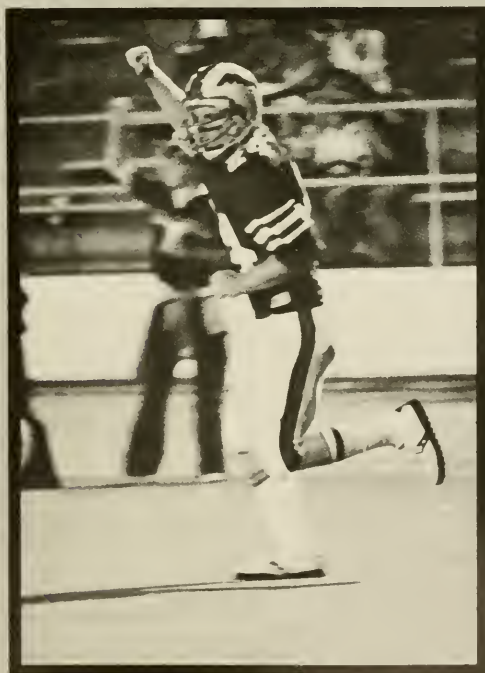

Before accepting the job at MTSU he coached at Austin Peay, Vanderbilt and Father Ryan High School. At Austin Peay he lead the Gobs to win the OVC Championship, and in two years at Austin Peay his record stood at 14-7.

Whether MTSU will return to the old tradition of winning football is yet to be seen but one thing is for sure that Donnelly is well on his way to reviving a fallen football team as he recruited his first player for the 1979 season the first week he was on the job.

Horace Jones, Father of MTSU sports, dies in December

Horace Jones, known as the father of athletics at Middle Tennessee State University and the man that sowed the seeds to reap more than 30 years of football success, died December 2, 1978.

Jones, 87, was the son of the first president of Middle Tennessee State Normal School, as it was known in 1911, when he came to work as bursar and as an administrative assistant to his father.

The White County native will be best remembered for bringing legendary player/coach Charles M. Murphy to the school he would lead to football prominence.

He served this school for nearly half a century as a math instructor and guided a stumbling athletic department from infancy to greatness.

Jones served as athletic committee chairman during the tenure of seven Middle Tennessee football coaches, including Murphy.

Recruiting was a big part of Jones' duties and basketball was the name of the game that Jones recruited in. He stayed away from football until 1933, when Murray State defeated the football team 70-7. After that defeat Jones, began recruiting and the football team went from the bottom to the top. The school was soon recognized for a winning football tradition.

While Jones was a member of the faculty of MTSU he spent his mornings as a math instructor and in the evenings he scheduled football games and set his goal to recruit new members to the teams.

Horace Jones fully deserves to have a football field carrying his name. That is the least Middle Tennessee State University can do for a legend.

Charles Sarver presents Horace Jones with a plaque, signifying that he was one of the first inductees into the Blue Raider Hall of Fame.

Three Added To Blue Raider Hall Of Fame

Two multi-sport performers and a former professional baseball player were inductees into the MTSU Blue Raider Hall of Fame as part of the homecoming activities.

Henry Hackman who starred in football, basketball and baseball in the late 1920's; Ray Purvis, an All-Conference athlete in football, baseball pitcher in the late 1950's; and Kola Sharp, a professional baseball pitcher in the 1920's and 1930's, were the new inductees into the Hall of Fame.

Hackman was considered one of the finest running backs to ever play at MTSU. Although he gained most of his fame in football, he was a standout in all three sports and was captain of the football team in 1927.

Purvis, like Hackman, was a star in three sports, but football was his best sport. He lettered four times in football, during a span in which MTSU won 35 games while losing only five and tying one. Purvis was All-OVC and All-American in 1959 and his season average of 9.1 yards per carry is still an OVC record.

Purvis was captain of the MTSU baseball team in 1960 and was also the 100-yard dash champion of the OVC, as well as the long jump champion that spring. At one time, he held the 100-yard, 220-yard and long jump records at MTSU.

Sharp played two years of baseball at Middle Tennessee State Teachers College before turning pro. He pitched professionally from 1928-1939, with most of his career being spent at Little Rock with the Southern Association.

They were inducted in ceremonies during the Letterman's Breakfast on October 28 in the Tennessee Room of the James Union Building.

Henry Hackman, who starred in football, basketball, and baseball in the late 20's was among the three men that were inducted into the Blue Raider Hall of Fame October 28, 1978.

Ray Purvis, an All-Conference athlete in football, baseball, and track in the late 50's was also an inductee into the Hall of Fame in October.

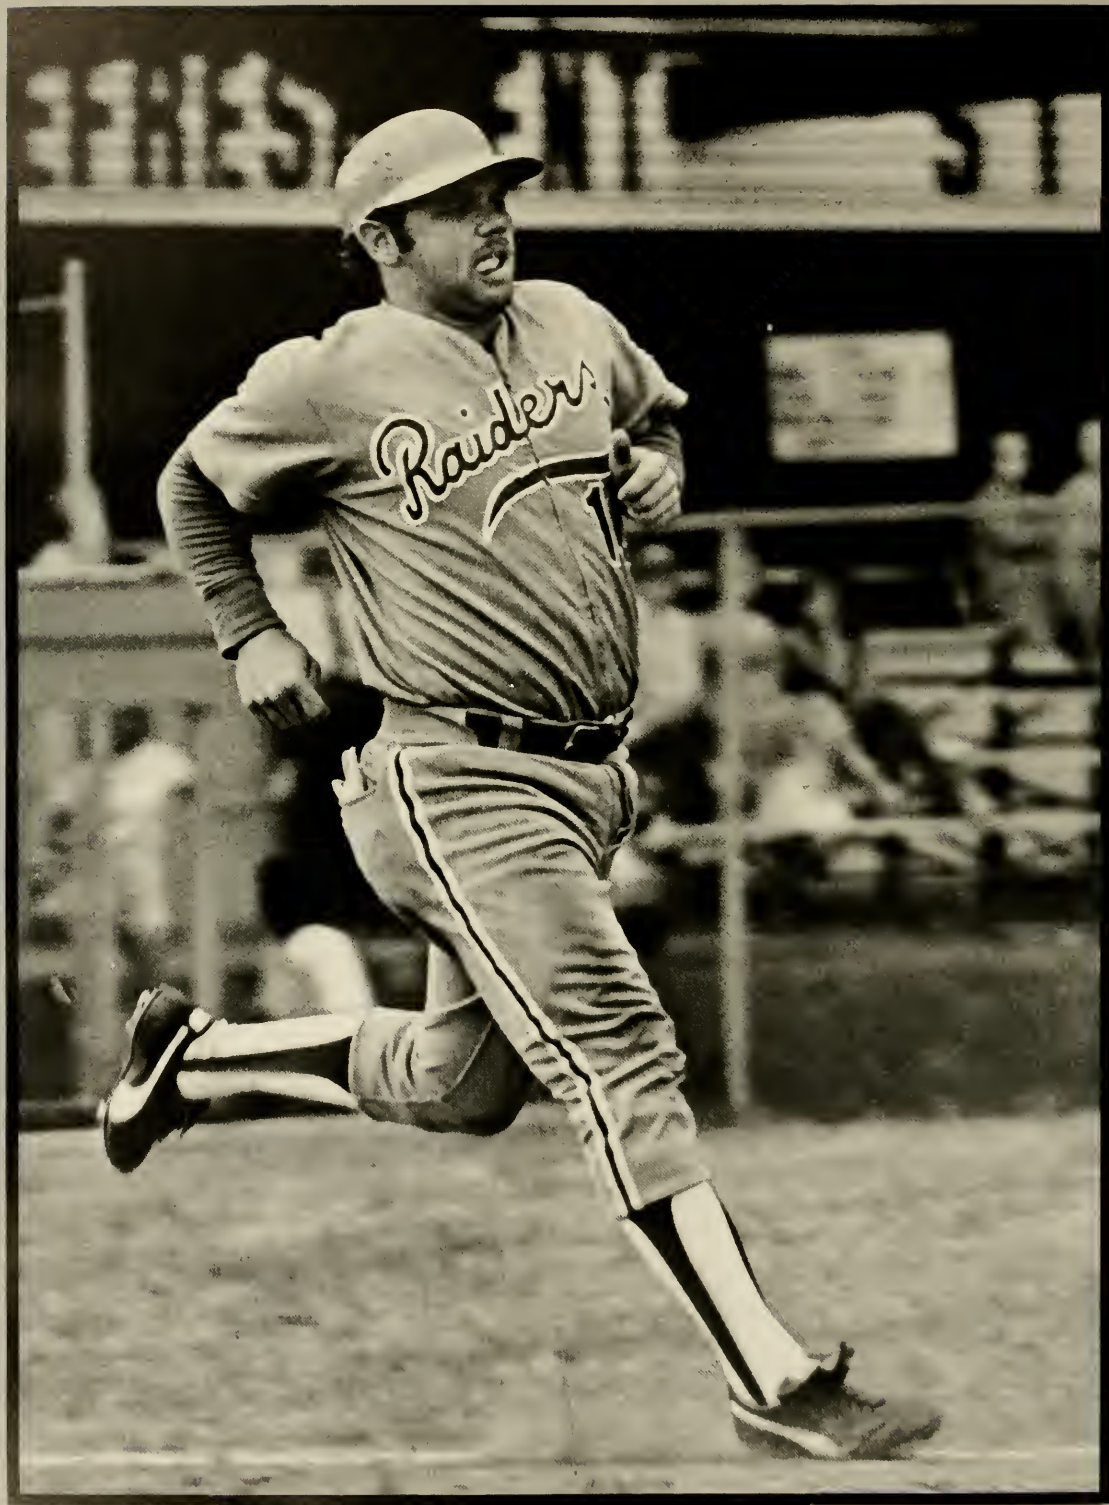

Kola Sharp was among the three that were added to the Hall of Fame. Sharp was a professional baseball pitcher in the 1920's and 1930's.

Receiving the award at the Blue Raider Hall of Fame banquet October 28 were l to r: Robert Hackman in honer of Henry Hackman, Ray Purvis received his own award, and Don Sharpe received the award for Kola Sharp.

Stanford's 26-24 Record, First Losing Season

Middle Tennessee State baseball coach John Stanford has never had a losing season as long as he has been coaching baseball, but the 1978 campaign (26-24) was nothing to marvel about.

For the past two seasons, Stanford's prime concern has been the pitching, or lack of it. Last year the team's earned run average was 5.29 and the bulk of the staff that returned for the 1979 season were over that mark.

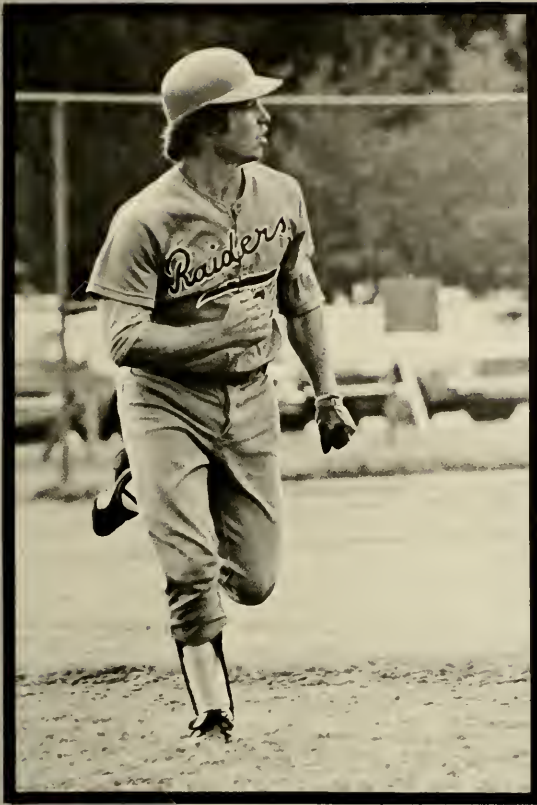

Two freshman pitchers were in the line-up for the season that Coach Stanford had preferred to have worked slowly into the game, but because of inexperience he had to depend on Robert Culley and Tom Wilson.

Culley struck out 28 and walked only nine in 38 innings, while Wilson hurled three hitters at both Ole Miss and Eastern Illinois.

Coach Stanford had five top hitters for the 1978 season. The top hitters were first baseman Doug Hicks, who set two school records with 13 home runs and 57 RBI's while hitting .364; infielder Tom Nichting (.337, 13 RBI's); right fielder Bobby Hines (.335, 42 RBI's); catcher Eric Graves (.318, 35 RBI's); and DH Tom Zakotnik (.306).

The overall team defense didn't please Stanford in 1978 either; but shortstop Mike Tobitt played the position well and senior third baseman Kerry Maxwell was termed by Stanford as the slick-fielder.

For the first time in years the MTSU squad did not make it in the playoffs. In Ohio Valley Conference play the team finished with a 12-4 season record.

Cross Country Team Finishes Fourth

Dean Hayes, MTSU's cross country team coach, wasted no time in accomplishing his goal as he guided the team in finishing fourth in the Ohio Valley Conference.

The OVC cross country meet for the 1978 race was hosted by Middle Tennessee State University and was held at the Veterans Hospital in Murfreesboro. The title of fourth place has only happened one time before for Coach Dean Hayes and that was in 1971.

Gary Perry, top runner for the year finished first place out of seven races and also broke the record for the 10,000 meter race held at Carson-Newman College by three minutes.

Joe O'Loughlin, freshman from Ireland got adjusted easily to the climate in Tennessee and finished first in one race and finished in the top five in most of the meets.

Other runners that added the extra points to the final team score and finishing in the top ten in most races were Dana McCutcheon, Jay Simonetta and Linton Whaley.

Track Team Expands, Defends Title

Coached by Dean Hayes, MTSU's indoor and outdoor track team expanded in 1978 to allow greater competition for its members, and also was recognized nationally throughout the season.

In the opener at David Lipscomb College MTSU had two members of the team to qualify, for the NCAA long jump competition. Sheikh Faye and John Dodoo were the two qualifiers for the indoor meet.

Another outstanding race for Dodoo was at the Indiana Relays where he won the triple jump, and at the Illinois Classic where he jumped 52 feet 2 inches.

In the Ohio Valley Conference Championships, Dodoo broke the record in the triple jump with a jump of 52 feet and three-fourths inches. In the 440 yard dash, Ed Stegall, J.T. Musgrove and Russell Holloway won the race in 47 minutes and eight seconds.

Faye and Dodoo were chosen as All-American stars in the long and triple jump. In the outdoor meets, David Cleveland won the pole vault competition at MTSU against Miami, Ohio and other tough competition.

The outdoor track team accomplished many records during the year with Greg Artis finishing third place in the Florida Relays, and this caused the team to be recognized nationally.

Coach Hayes was very pleased with the results in the OVC as the team defended their title in winning six first places. Qualifiers in that meet were Sheikh Faye, Rosco Kidd, Chester Ranson, John Dodoo, Ed Stegall and Russell Holloway.

Greg Artis was chosen by the National Junior AAU to play on the National Junior Team.

John DoDoo leaps high into the air to jump over the bar. DoDoo was chosen during the 1978 season as an All-American player.

Patty Continues Success In Coaching, Wins OVC

In the Ohio Valley Conference golf championship, MTSU continued its dominance of the league by capturing the title.

Middle Tennessee's Chris Hall took the individual championship with a 54 hole total of 213 barely edging out Sy Mandle of Austin Peay by one stroke. Hall recorded one of the tournaments top scores with a first round of 69. He slipped to a 74 on the second day, but finished strongly with a 70.

Chris Hall was voted as the Most Valuable Player in the OVC by the conference coaches, and Coach E.K. Patty was named co-coach of the year in the OVC along with Jim Suttie of Eastern Kentucky.

Other golf competition that the Raiders participated in proved to be successful throughout the season. They won the Murray Invitational, Opryland Classic, Tennessee Intercollegiate and finished second in the Eastern Kentucky Invitational.

Tennis Team Drops To Fourth In OVC

The Lady Raiders' started the season in high hopes of moving up one notch from the 1977 season, when they placed third in the Ohio Valley Conference, but finishing fourth in the OVC was no disappointment for former Raider tennis star, and present coach Sandy Neal. The 1978 team compiled a 13-6 record and competed in two tournaments. The first tournament that was held at UT Martin midway through the season found the Lady Raiders finishing sixth out of 13 teams. The competition was against such powers as Ole Miss., UT Knoxville, University of Kentucky, Western Kentucky and other strong teams.

The teams to defeat MTSU in the State Tournament were Tennessee Tech, UT and Memphis State. These three teams defeating MTSU in the tournament left the Lady Raiders fourth in the OVC.

Elina Durchman, from Finland, was selected by the OVC as the Most Valuable Player. Durchman is the first Lady Raider to receive such an honor.

Above: Kaye Wrather returns the ball to her opponent during a match. Wrather was victorious in many single matches. Right: Corrine McDonald saw limited action during the year but Coach Neal was pleased with her play in the 1978 season.

Tracy Williams strikes a backhand stroke to an opponent. Williams was a heavy contender in the OVC.

Peter Roberts and Dale Short team up to win a match. Peter had an 18-5 record in 1978. Dale was the number one player for the Blue Raiders during the 1978 season. He compiled a 16-6 record for the year.

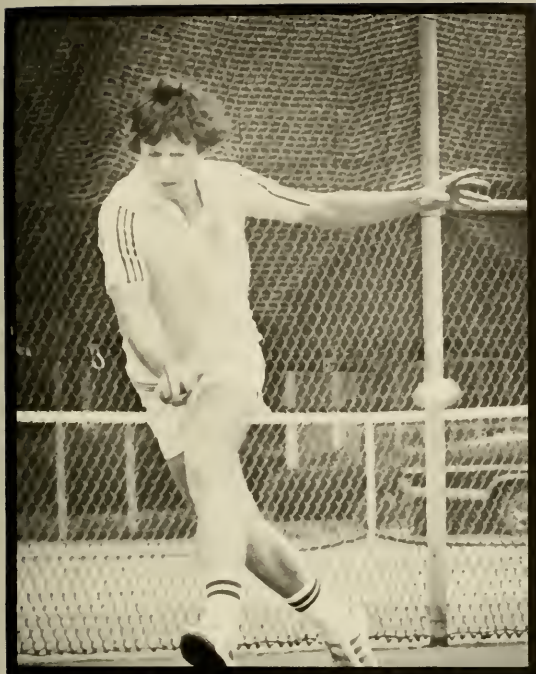

Tony Fernandez prepares for a backhand stroke. Tony recorded a 13-10 record in 1978 and was named to the OVC team.

Returning the ball back over the net is the object of the game and Danny Wallace showed his ability as he returns the serve. Wallace was also named to the OVC team during the 1978 campaign.

Peter Hefferan concentrates on his backhand stroke as he returns the ball.

LaLance Guides Team To Success

After finishing second in the Ohio Valley Conference for two consecutive years, the Blue Raider tennis team will be looking for the OVC Championship in 1979.

During the 1978 season Coach Dick LaLance guided his team to a 16-7 record, and second in the OVC. The Raiders have received national recognition in the past because of the competition they have played against.

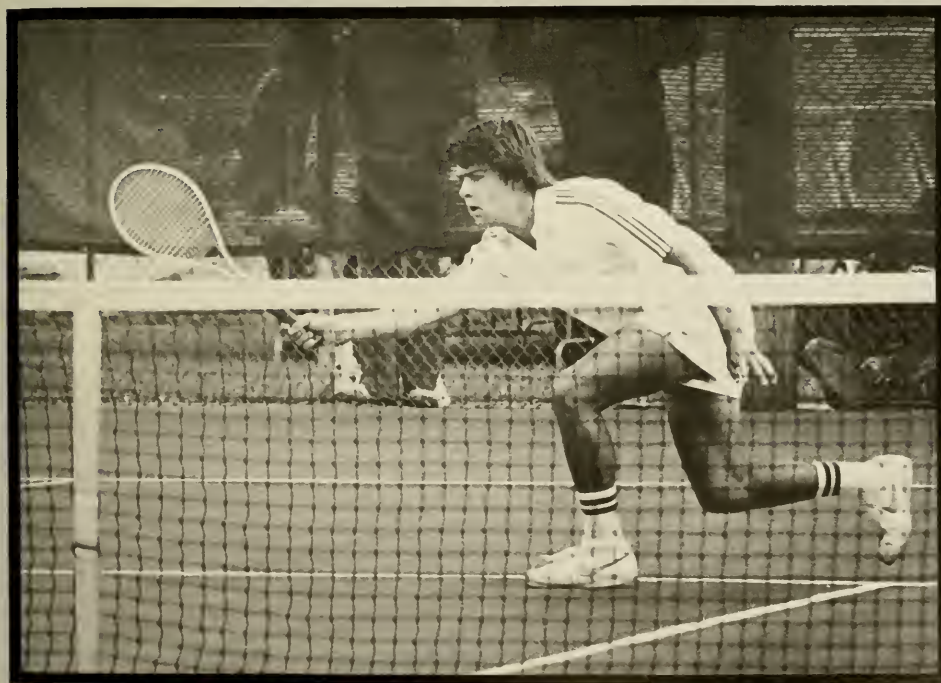

The 1978 season was no exception as the Blue Raider team competed against Alabama, Auburn, Indiana and Florida, and also the strong contenders in the OVC.

Team members that helped in accomplishing second place in the OVC were Peter Hefferan, Tony Fernandez and Danny Wallace. These three team members were also All-OVC players for the 1978 year.

LaLance feels that his team is capable of beating strong opponents during the 1979 season, and once again capable of making a strong run at the OVC Championship.

The reason Coach LaLance has such high hopes for the 1979 year is because he did not lose anyone from the 1978 squad.

In keeping with the scheduling policy that has given the Raiders national recognition, the 1979 schedule also includes some of the strongest teams in the Southeast.

Danny Wallace reaches out to return the serve to his opponent. Wallace recorded a 20-3 record in 1978. He will probably see action at the number four singles in 1979.

Effort Outweighs Strength For Wrestlers

It was a successful year for wrestling coach Gordon Connell as he was picked in the Mid-Southern Tournament as the coach of the year.

Coach Connell felt that the 1979 team's progress cannot be reflected on their record, but on their efforts, as they participated in one of the toughest seasons ever scheduled for the wrestling team.

Led by Pat Simpson, Tony Rowland and David Buck, the wrestlers competed against 17 teams during the year. The team participated in several prestigious tournaments including the Mid-Southern in Chattanooga; the Midwest Classic in South Bend, Indiana and the SEIWA held in Sewanee. MTSU placed fifth in the Midwest and fourth in the SEIWA. The team also captured the Mid-Southern tournament with nine out of 10 wrestlers placing. Other schools which the team participated against were Alabama, Jacksonville State and Notre Dame.

Coach Gordon Connell congratulates David Buck for such a fine effort in the SIU Edwardsville match. MTSU lost the match 35-20.

Depended upon several times during the season by Coach Connell, Ivory Beck was not as fortunate as in other matches as he is pinned.

Coach Connell gives advice to Tony Rowland on the side. He is also checking Rowland's ankle which was hurt in the match. Rowland's dual meet record for the year was 9-5. He also finished third in the Mid-Southern Tournament.

The referee gives Pat Simpson three points for a nearfall as he pins the Illinois state champ. Pat placed second during the year in the Mid-West Classic Tournament.

Cheerleaders Keep Audience Alive And Awake

The Blue Raider cheerleaders played a big part in spirit-building for the MTSU sports during the 1978-79 season. Under the leadership of sponsor Diane McCord and captains Scott Berry and Mimi Hodges, the squad added enthusiasm to all the football and basketball games with the innovative cheer and gymnastic skills.

The cheerleaders sponsored several activities during the year. The captains attended camp at Cookeville and returned for a week long camp for the entire squad and after the camp the squad practiced two to three times weekly until the football season began.

During the summer, the MTSU cheerleaders conducted a cheerleading clinic on campus for Junior and Senior High School cheerleaders in Middle Tennessee.

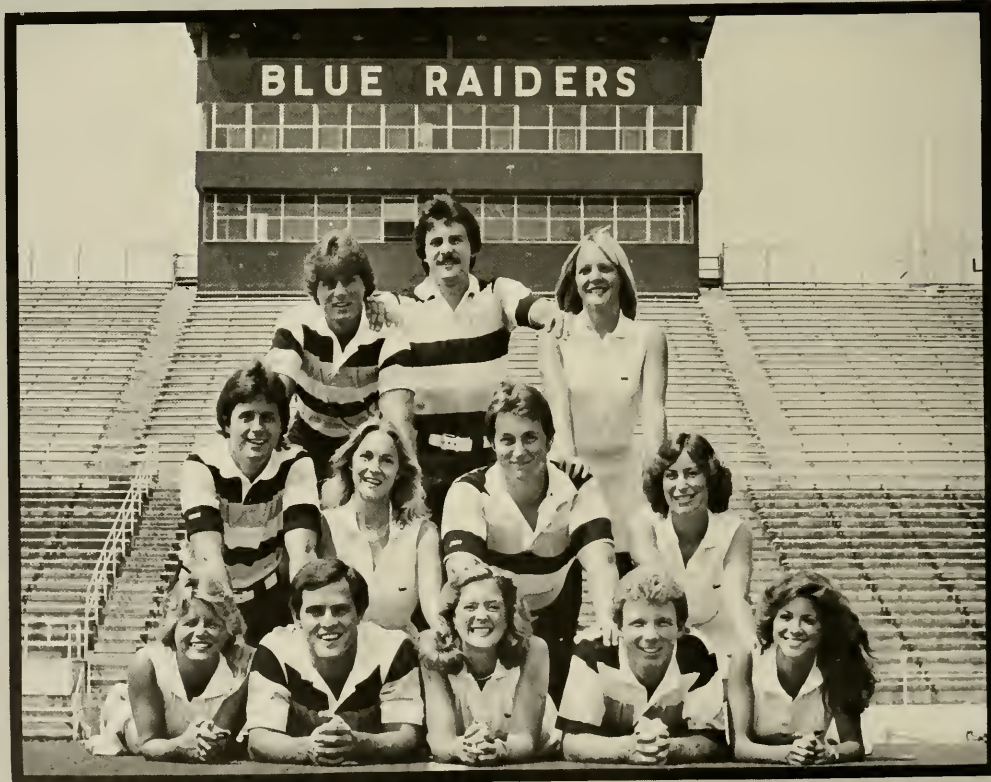

Other events that the cheerleaders participated in during the year were the homecoming activities which included the parade, pep rally and the bonfire.

The cheerleaders were also chosen because of their superior cheerleading during the games to compete for the national cheerleading award.

The 12 member squad continually showed that their long hard hours of practice created a polished effect to keep the MTSU spirit alive.

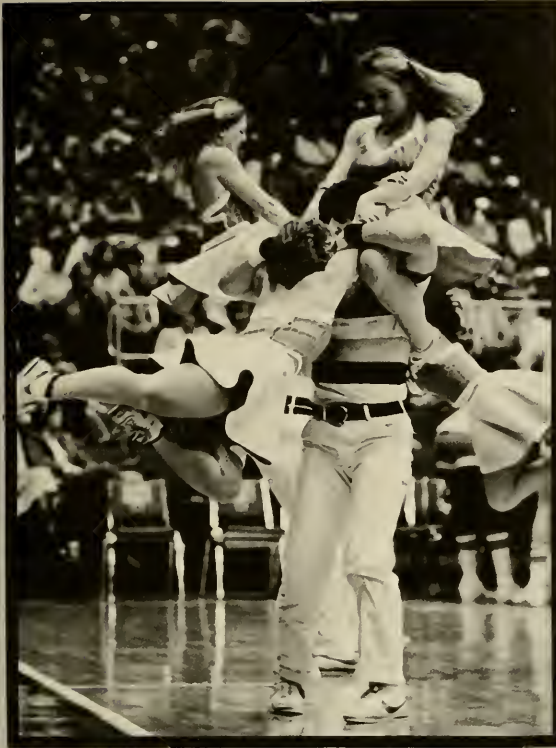

The Raider mascot could often be seen holding signs to indicate the way the game was going.

Selected to cheer for the football and basketball teams for the 1978-79 season were: Leah Norris, Joel Payne, Lea Swann, John Green, Conna Henn, Keith Baird, Mimi Hodges, Mike Lovelace, Suzi Bennett, Scott Berry, Barry Knox and Michelle Taylor.

Macho Man Barry Knox shows his power during a basketball game as he gives Mimi Hodges and Leah Norris a merry-go-round ride.

Keeping the fans pepped up during the game can sometimes be a chore but Scott Berry is trying his best to develop some spirit during the basketball game.

With Murphy Center filled and the game close, the cheerleaders have no trouble producing crowd spirit.

Inexperienced Team Surprises Fans

When a team has eight letterwinners missing due to graduation, and when there is only one player returning that has had any past experience in basketball before the season had ever begun, you might say that the roundball fans didn't have much to look forward to in women's basketball at MTSU.

With a lot of hard work and a lot of phone calls placed by womens Athletic Director Patricia Jones in April, MTSU did have something to look forward to as Larry Joe Inman accepted the job of coaching the sagging basketball team.

When Inman realized he didn't have much to work with, he started developing the leadership type team he had worked with at the previous high schools he had coached.

The only player that had any experience at the beginning of the season was 6'1" Sharon McClannahan. Other letterwinners that returned that had seen limited action were 5'6" guard Nancy Bolen, 5'9" forward Kathy Riley and 5'9" guard Bonnine Angus.

When Inman realized he didn't have the five players to make the team he did some recruiting. Recruited were junior college standouts Pam Duff, Carol Perry, Debbie Shipley and forward Cindy Moore.

With the four recruits, Inman still faced the problem of not having enough substitutes for the games. What Pat Jones termed "good luck" happened just a few weeks before the season began and it was the signing of Ileana Portik, a former member of the Rumanian National Team. Portik, star of the team with a 20 point average and 10 rebounds per game, defected to the United States and wound up at MTSU after several weeks of time consuming events.

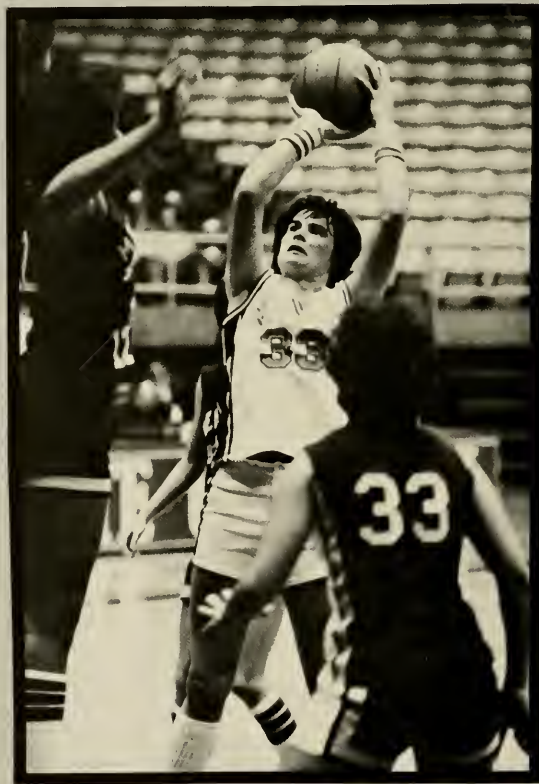

Other walk-ons that added the extra punch to the team were Celisa Polk and Josephine Wright.

Inman was well pleased with the scrimmages before the season opened, but when he thought about the Tipoff Tournament that MTSU was hosting and the powers his team had to face, coaching became a nightmare.

When Nov. 17 rolled around, anxieties were building in the athletic department as the Lady Raiders were scheduled to tangle with the University of Kentucky, a national ranked team.

Josephine Wright prepares to pass the ball to teammate Sharon McClannahan in the Lady Raider's game against Murray State. The Lady Raiders won 87 to 79 in overtime.

Kathy Riley goes up for two points against Murray State. Riley averaged 19.4 points a game this season.

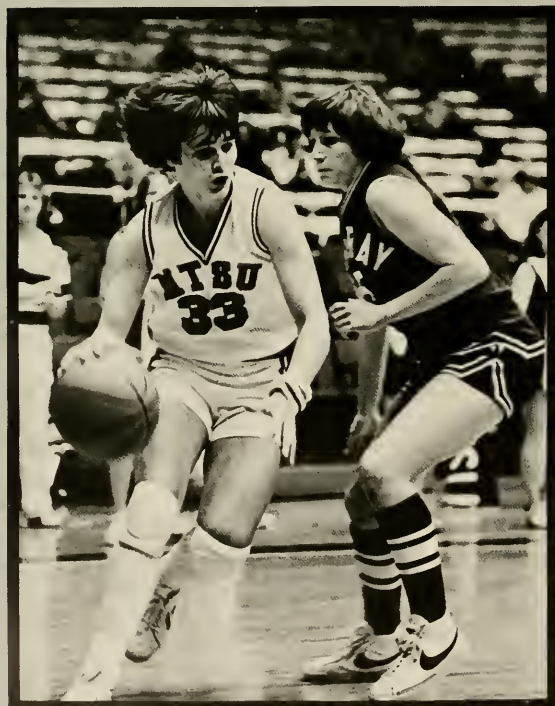

Although heavily guarded, Bonnie Angus managed two points and drew a foul in the game against Union University. The Lady Raiders won the game 67 to 60. Angus, Inman's number six player is called on to fill any open position.

Debbie Shipley headed the point position in setting up and calling the plays for the Lady Raiders. She was also the ball handler for the team.

Kathy Riley drives to the basket to pump in two points. Riley broke the school record for the most points in a single game as she scored 38 points against Memphis State.

Linda Perry looks for help and someone to pass the ball to as a Murray State defender has her concerned. Perry averaged 7.3 points per game.

Josephine Wright edges past a Union University guard. Inman was very pleased with Wright, a transfer from Columbia State.

Kathy Riley drives past a Morehead guard. The Lady Raiders were defeated 67 to 74.

The national ranked team came into Murphy Center with the thought that the inexperienced Lady Raiders would be no challenge. Coach Inman and the team proved the Kats wrong as the final buzzer sounded, MTSU 90, Kentucky 87. A thriller that Inman needed for a boost into college coaching came early in his career.

After the big win over Kentucky, Memphis State was the next foe in concluding the tournament. Memphis state, led by Betty Booker, edged the Lady 91-81.

The loss dampened the spirits of the inexperienced team and "downhill" is the appropriate word that described the squad as they lost the next four games. The losses came to Union University, UT Chattanooga, Alabama and UT Knoxville.

With the lack of spirit at the games by the fans and the players, Coach Inman saw that adjustments had to be made and the results of the adjustments caused the Lady Raiders to squeak past Vanderbilt 69-67. This concluded the 1978 season, excluding the Mississippi Tournament Dec. 14-16. The Lady Raiders lost all three games in the tournament.

Surprising some fans and to some the first 12 games went as expected, but for Coach Inman and the team, preparations had to be made to meet the new year which included the Ohio Valley Conference games.

Coach Inman said his new years resolution was to "win more games" and this seemed to come true a few times but not in the first OVC game of the season, as the Lady Raiders fell to Morehead State 67-74.

Sharon McClannahan decides to take a short rest on the floor as Ileina Portik looks in on the game against Memphis State.

Inman's Goal To Win

The Lady Raiders were determined to make Coach Inman's dream come true after losing to Morehead, and they bounced back to defeat Eastern Kentucky 75-61. This evened the OVC record for the determined Lady Raiders 1-1. On Jan. 13, the Lady Raiders made their first away visit to Tennessee Tech, and lost in what Coach Inman termed "a poor officiating game." The Tennessee Tech team took advantage of the home court to win the game 107-73. Two nights later luck started clinking for the Lady Raiders as they handed Union University the taste of medicine that they had received when visiting Jackson. The MTSU team defeated Union 67-60. This victory gave the team incentive to win the next four games against Austin Peay, Murray State, Western Kentucky and nationally ranked Memphis State.

The scoreboard behind Josephine Wright and Debbie Shipley indicates why Wright has such a happy look on her face.

Debbie Shipley, a point guard, sets up a play in the game against Morehead.

Celisa Polk, a reserve, tries to avoid a Vanderbilt guard. The Lady Raiders won the contest in a close match 69-67.

Ileana Portik moves into position to receive a rebound. In the action Sharon McClanahan also moves to help Portik get possession of the ball.

Josephine Wright, transfer from CSCC, goes out of bounds to save the ball and return to a teammate.

With a big win over 19th ranked Memphis State, the Lady Raiders had built up momentum to be one of the best teams in the OVC, and proved that at UT Chattanooga where they won 66-63.

In the OVC tournament the Lady Raiders fell in the first game against Eastern Kentucky, and this game eliminated hopes for a title for first year coach Larry Inman.

After the OVC Tournament the Lady Raiders got back on the hardwood of Murphy Center with East Tennessee and played before a house of 80 fans winning the game 59-44. Coach Inman was very disappointed in the play of his squad, after having a bad night of shooting, and Coach Inman said the determining factor for the poor shooting night was the attendance.

At this point in the season, problems arose with the dismissal of Kathy Riley, and the resignation of Bonnie Angus from the team.

With the loss of the two starters from the team, hopes for future success was hopeless, but the rest of the team members proved this to be wrong as they won the next four games against Austin Peay, UT Martin, Western Kentucky and Vanderbilt.

The last game of the season for the Lady Raiders ended in the State Tournament against East Tennessee State, at Knoxville, 55-53. This game also marked the end of Sharon McClannahan's career at MTSU.

Inman Continues Success In Coaching

After watching and hearing the success that Coach Larry Joe Inman had acquired at Mt. Juliet High School, Pat Jones, athletic director, wasted no time in selecting Inman as MTSU's womens basketball coach in April of 1978.

Inman compiled an overall mark of 195 wins compared to only 32 loses during the eight years as high school girls coach. While at Mt. Juliet, Inman won five district championships, three region titles, three NIL championships and the 1977 Class AAA State Title.

Coach Inman came to MTSU with a philosophy in mind where "winning is everything."

"Sure, I like to win. Everybody likes to win, but I coach to develop young people and the talents they have. I do that, and let winning and losing take care of themselves," Inman said.

Coach Inman is the third coach in womens basketball at MTSU since the program started.

McClannahan Breaks School Record

Sharon McClannahan, a 6'0" senior center from Centerville, Tennessee, became the first woman in MTSU basketball history to surpass the 1,000 point mark.

McClannahan was selected by the members of the Lady Raider team to serve as captain of the squad for the 1978-79 season.

"Sharon has never been one to worry about personal achievement," Larry Inman, Lady Raider coach said. "Even though I've been here only a short time, I've come to know and admire Sharon as a person as much as an athlete. She's just a super individual."

McClannahan began the season with 901 career points and was already the highest scorer in the history of women's basketball at MTSU.

When McClannahan started to school at MTSU in 1975, she had no intention of playing basketball, but after much persuasion by many of her friends, Coach Pat Jones gave McClannahan a full scholarship. The reason Jones felt that McClannahan deserved the scholarship was that she scored 37 points in her first game for MTSU.

McClannahan's record was not broken until this season when Kathy Riley scored 38 points against Western Kentucky. Sharon was later to break Riley's record by scoring 39 points against W.K.U.

"Of the four years I've been on the team, Coach Inman has made the biggest difference in attitude and play from the players and I've enjoyed playing more this year than ever before in college ball," McClannahan said.

McClannahan had her most productive season, averaging 20 points and 10.4 rebounds per game. She started in all the games.

With McClannahan's records and with the women's athletic movement across the country, Coach Inman and Women's Athletic Director Pat Jones are looking to the future for other women to try to top the outstanding efforts of McClannahan.

Sharon goes for a layup shot in Murphy Center.

Memphis State Lady Tigers don't stop Sharon from adding points to the Lady Raider score.

Concentration can be seen on Sharon's face as she waits for the in-bound pass.

Jimmy Riley (33) draws a foul as he goes up for a rebound against Eastern Kentucky. Riley is a 6'6" senior forward from New York.

With a rugged schedule ahead for the Blue Raider basketball team, and with the loss of two starters from the 1977-78 season, the future was unpredictable for Coach Jimmy Earle and his inexperienced roundball team.

Although the fans knew the chances for a title were hopeless before the season began, it didn't stop the sale of season tickets, and it was reported at the end of the ticket sale that more tickets had been sold than ever in MTSU history.

The ticket sale was so high due to people remembering what excitement the raiders had showed them the year before, and being top seeded in the Ohio Valley Conference.

Despite the loss of two seniors and being a young squad, the team had to look to the future of possibly playing in the NCAA tournament that was held in Murphy Center.

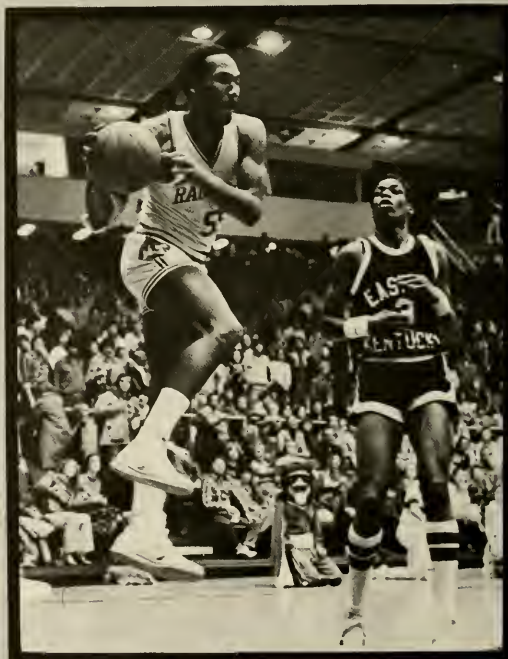

When the first day of November rolled around, the spirit of Blue raider basketball was beginning to fill the air. When

Nov. 30 crept upon the Raider fans, the crowd began taking their seats before the capacity filled Murphy Center for the tipoff of the first game of the season against North Carolina Central.

With Coach Earle's reputation of having a winning basketball team, the fans really didn't have any disappointment the first night as the Blue Raiders captured their first victory, 72-55.

With the results of the first game the threshold of Murphy Center had many heads to pass under it for the second game of the season against Georgia College. How sweet it is, MTSU 74 and Georgia 54.

Before the season began, Coach Earle said he would have a young squad and the team wouldn't be as strong as in the past but to win the first two games made the fans wonder if Coach Earle knew what he was talking about when he said that the team would be young and inexperienced.

Greg Joyner is out of bounds but is still in the air to save the ball and throw it to his teammates. An Eastern Kentucky player looks on in amazement.

When the first road game approached the Raiders, the trip didn't pay off as the Crimson Tide rolled over a new leaf for the raiders in putting them in the losing column for the first time for the 1978 season. The final score was Alabama 89 MTSU 66.

With captains Greg Armstrong, Leroy Coleman and Greg Joyner in the line up, the Raiders gained a little momentum to defeat Pikeville College at home Dec. 7 with a score of 84-74, but only a little momentum was built up as the Raiders lost the next two games against Mississippi State and Tennessee State.

With only two games left before the Rebel Roundup that the Raiders participated in, preparations had to be made by the coaches to make changes on the floor and build up a good winning streak.

The changes on the floor seemed to be effective as the next two foes fell to the MTSU Raiders. McNeese State and Arkansas were the victims to the host team.

Gambling City, USA — here we come! The MTSU Raiders left Wednesday morning by plane to play in the Rebel Roundup, held in Las Vegas, Nevada. This is the story that was found in most area newspapers, but the next story read that the Raiders lost their first roundup game to Nevada 83-95. This was a let down for Coach Earle, but not a totally wasted trip as the Raiders bounced back to capture third place against U.S. Santa Barbara 72-65.

"I'll Be Home For Christmas" could have been the theme song for the Blue Raiders as they returned to Murfreesboro Christmas Eve and prepared to close out the dreary 1978 year against David Lipscomb. With the Las Vegas spirit still on their minds, the Raiders wasted no time in smashing the visiting team 91-72.

Mike Frost, 6'10" freshman from Pulaski, Tennessee, gained a starting role early for the Raiders for his ability to keep the ball from reaching the opponent. Frost has an Eastern player covered, but Eastern won the contest 77-81.

Curtis Fitts, 6'3" sophomore guard from Hendersonville, Tennessee, goes high above a Tennessee State guard. Fitts averaged five points a game and came through for Coach Earle many times with assists.

Greg Armstrong, 6'2" from Columbia, Tennessee, sets up a crucial play against the Tennessee defense. Armstrong was one of three seniors on the team and was chosen as team captain.

Cordell "Fly" Haynie didn't start playing on the Blue Raider team until late in the season, but when he was on the court the fans could usually expect a few points from the 6'4" senior from Hendersonville, Tennessee.

With a 7-4 record going into the new year and with the first OVC game of the year just one game away, the Blue Raiders kept the New Year bright on Jan. 2 to thrash UNC-Asheville 98-61.

OVC Basketball — MTSU vs. Morehead State — This is the point of the season that the games started counting toward conference play.

Praises were showered upon head coach Jimmy Earle and his players by the students, townspeople and the press as they proved to be as strong as the 1978 season had proved them to be as they provided the first squeaker of the season against Morehead at home 99-97.

After the first OVC game, the raiders suddenly dug a pit and fell in as the next two games found the raiders on the short end of the scoreboard, against Eastern Kentucky and Tennessee Tech.

At this point in the season the odds were against the MTSU team as they stood 1-2 in OVC play. But with the Raiders back on the road again, the first away game victory came in Clarksville against rivalry Austin Peay in a close 64-58 contest.

With the OVC record evened out at this point, the next game at home against Murray State was crucial to Coach Earle, but the final score read MTSU 84 and Murray 71.

Coach Jimmy Earle shows a sigh of disgust with the game as he walks away from the referee. Earle resigned from the coaching position prior to the final home game.

Raiders Merit Praise

After a big win over Murray, Coach Earle and the Blue Raiders went on the road to face Western Kentucky. In what Coach Earle felt was one of the poorest officiating games of the season, the Raiders fell 72-70. This game was televised on WNGE Channel 2, and was the first time MTSU was on TV this season. Several games were televised from the OVC, and this game was played in the Bowling Green Gymnasium.

The month of February started off on a bad note when the Raiders fell to Eastern Kentucky 84-83. The game was played neck to neck, despite a 38 point performance from James "Turk" Tillman of Eastern.

At this point in the season the MTSU squad had to either win or give it up in the OVC, but with a big win over Morehead Feb. 5, the Raiders evened their coverage record 4-4.

The Murphy Magic, as it is sometimes called when the Raiders surprised the fans in their plan, didn't last long after the win over Morehead when Mercer University invaded Murphy Center, and walked away with a 64-61 win over MTSU in overtime.

In a Feb. 10 engagement with Tennessee Tech, much preparation had to be made by the coaching staff to prepare for the highly recognized team in the OVC. When the time rolled around, the Raiders didn't waste anytime as they took advantage of several floor mistakes by the Tennessee Tech squad and secured a 22 point lead at one time during the game. Building up too much confidence in the early stages of the game may have been the fault, as the Raiders fell in overtime 76-72.

Six days after a loss to Mercer University on the MTSU home court, the Blue Raiders traveled to Mercer and surprised the fans to win the game 62-61.

The next two games were hard fought victories over Murray State and Austin Peay.

Leroy Coleman shows defensive talent against Eastern Kentucky in the OVC tournament. MTSU lost the game in a close contest 90-81. Eastern won the OVC Championship.

On Feb. 22, at the weekly faculty-press luncheon at MTSU, there was an unexpected surprise as Coach Earle announced his resignation at the end of the 1979 season.

After 10 years of coaching at MTSU, Coach Earle said he felt that every coach reaches the point of saturation and stress, and wants to be relieved from their duties. He went on to say that the time had come for his resignation.

With one game and the OVC Tournament left in the season, the team members wanted the remainder of the season to be as successful as possible. The last game proved to be successful for Coach Earle as the Blue Raiders won the game against Western Kentucky 81-76. At the beginning of the game, Coach Earle was ushered to the center of the gymnasium and received a standing ovation for his 10 years of gratitude and dedication to the MTSU basketball program. At the conclusion of the game Coach Earle was carried on the shoulders of his players to the dressing room. This game ended the coaching career for Coach Earle in the Murphy Center Gymnasium.

The Raiders were seeded fourth in the OVC, and had to play at Richmond, Ky. During the first game in the tournament, the MTSU team faced Eastern Kentucky and after a hard fought game, the Raiders were on the short end of a 90-81 decision.

The game against Eastern eliminated the Raiders from the championship game in the OVC and spoiled their chances for playing in the NCAA Mid-East Regional Tournament, held at Murphy Center.

This game was the last official game for Greg Joyner, who was chosen on the All-OVC team, Cordell Haynie, Jimmy Riley and Greg Armstrong. It was not only the last game for the MTSU seniors, but it was the last game for Coach Jimmy Earle, known as the old-timer coach of OVC.

NCAA Elite Comes To Murphy Center

Murphy Center will never be the same. At least not to the thousands of fans who packed themselves into the spacious arena to see the NCAA Midwest Regional Tournament played March 9 and 11.

"This weekend has been just great," Athletic Director Charles "Bubber" Murphy said after Sunday's action was over. "The exposure this tournament will give our university and our athletic program is fantastic."

MTSU couldn't have gotten luckier as far as the seeding for the tournament went. There was some doubt as to whether or not the Southeastern Conference tournament champion Tennessee Volunteers would come to Murfreesboro, or be sent to the site of the other Midwest Regional being played at the University of Indiana.

When it was announced that Tennessee would come here instead of going to Bloomington, Ind. tickets sales skyrocketed. It only took until noon of the first day after the announcement of the pairings for both Friday's and Sunday's sessions to be sold out.

Of course, the announcing of Michigan State and Notre Dame's participation in the tournament didn't hurt ticket sales one bit, in that they both finished the season in the top five in the country. Rounding out the field of six teams, was the Ohio Valley Conference tournament champion Eastern Kentucky, Southland Conference champion Lamar University and the University of Detroit.

The Spartans of Michigan State and Notre Dame's Fighting Irish drew first round byes on the merit of their ranking in the Midwest, so they would not have to play until Sunday. Friday's games matched UT's Volunteers against EKU's Colonels, preceded by the Lamar-Detroit battle.

Lamar's Cardinals pulled off a mild upset in the first game with a 95-87 victory over Detroit. Clarence Kea led all scorers with 33 points and also took rebounding honors with 19.

"Pick has really played well during these last three weeks leading up to the tournament," Lamar coach Billy Tubbs, said. "I'm glad to see him starting to get some of the publicity that he deserves."

The crowd of 10,982 fans came to life for the second game of the night between Tennessee and Eastern Kentucky. The upset-minded Colonels stayed close throughout the first half and trailed by only six points at halftime, due mainly to the offensive effort of the nation's third leading scorer James Tillman.

The Vols came out in a tough full court press at the outset of the second half, and turned three turnovers into six quick points and took control of the game. Tennessee kept the pressure on for the remainder of the game and turned the contest into a rout with the Vols finally taking a 97-81 victory.

With their first round victories, both UT and Lamar had the dubious honor of advancing to the second round against Michigan State and Notre Dame.

"I feel like we can play with Notre Dame," said Tennessee star center Reggie Johnson following the Vols victory over Eastern. "But if we do lose, I know that everyone will still remember this year's team with admiration."

Sunday's action brought a national television audience to Murphy Center for the first time in history, and the carnival-like atmosphere that television generates was something that Murfreesboro inhabitants are not likely to forget for a long time.

"Can you imagine what it would be like if we could fill this gym for all of our home games like this," former Blue Raider head coach Jimmy Earle said. "The effects it could have on a team are unthinkable."

Michigan State, boasting one of the nations most popular players in Earvin "Magic" Johnson, showed their supremacy over Lamar from the opening buzzer. State blew out to a quick 20 point margin in the first half, and coasted into the dressing room at halftime with a 46-27 lead. The Spartan's reserves played most of the second half, although Johnson did stay in long enough to give the crowd a taste of his "magical" ability.

"Earvin is just a great player," MSU's head coach Jud Heathcoat said. "Some people say that he adds a little too much French pastry, but if you saw him practice everyday, you would realize that everything he does has a purpose."

Although Johnson got the most "ooh's" and "aah's" from the crowd, center Greg "Special K" Kelser really stole the show. The 6-7 senior ripped the nets for 31 points and pulled down 14 rebounds.

State coach Heathcoat said that the key in the Spartans win was his team's ability to shut the down middle of Lamar's offense.

"We knew if we could keep Kea and (B.B.) Davis from getting the ball inside that we would be able to win," Heathcoat said. "I never expected us to win by as big a margin as we did, (94-64), but Lamar was really cold from outside."

Much like Friday's session, the crowd really began to heat up in anticipation of UT's entrance. By game time, the Murphy Center crowd looked like a sea of orange and white courtesy of the Vol's cheerleaders who had given pom-poms away by the thousands.

Tennessee, who had won their first game in NCAA Tournament history only nights earlier, played like tournament veterans against Notre Dame, and jumped out to a five point margin early in the half.

But the Fighting Irish shook their early game jitters, and roared back to take the lead toward the end of the half. The Vols edged back out by four, 32-28, with 1:10 to play in the period, but two straight turnovers allowed Notre Dame to tie the score at the intermission.

According to UT coach Don Devoe, the first three minutes of the second half changed the whole tempo of the game as the Irish came out in a full court trap press which resulted in three quick baskets.

"I tried to get a timeout called when they came out in their press, but the guys just didn't see me in time," Devoe said. "Once we got adjusted, we did okay."

Notre Dame physically wore the Vols down during the last half and when Reggie Johnson fouled out with 10 minutes to play, things looked bleak for UT. But just as the Big Orange had done most of the season, they fought back from a 12 point deficit and closed the score to 58-53, with 4:12 to play. But, Notre Dame went into a well executed four corner offense which forced the Vols to foul and send the Irish to the charity stripe where they were almost perfect. (They were nine out of 13 in the last two minutes.)

Senior point guard Johnny Darden led a last minute surge which brought UT back to within six points, but that's as close as they got as Notre Dame won 73-67.

"Tennessee really has a good ballclub," Irish coach Richard "Digger" Phelps said. "But, then again, so do we."

"I thought this was one of our poorest performances of the year as far as concentration goes," Devoe said. "We had our chances to win, but we just couldn't capitalize."

Total paid attendance for the two day affair was 21,964, and at seven and eight dollars a person one can imagine the cash income from the operation.

Yep, Murphy Center, will never be the same.

Young Volleyball Team Completes 10-13 Record

The volleyball team, coached by Sandy Neal, stepped into the future during the 1978 season by recruiting new players for the first time.

With a team of two juniors and the rest of the players freshmen and sophomores, the team put together a 10-13 season record and placed high in the state tournament.

Jackie McReynolds, the first MTSU recruit in women's volleyball, made the All-Tournament team at the Tennessee State Volleyball Tournament, and the team placed fourth in the state ahead of the Tennessee Tech.

In the University of Tennessee Tournament at Chattanooga, Jill Carroll made the All-Tournament team.

With the 1979 season opening in September, Coach Neal will be relying on the young and experienced team from 1978, and also the new recruits that she signed.

Jill Carroll misses an attempt to block a shot by a Bryan College player.

First Women's Track Team Organized

The year is 1979, the place, Murfreesboro, Tenn. The attraction is the first women's track team in MTSU history. Not only is 1979 the first year for a women's track team to be recognized, it is also the first year competition was included in the Ohio Valley Conference.

Debbie Chitwood, graduate assistant and coach, spent a year preparing top talent for the team. Talents as Susan Vaughn, Milly Mosley, Antoinetta Scruggs, Marion Gilbert, Suzzane Dorris, Cindy Moore, Kathy Riley, Josephine Wright and Celissa Polk were the runners for the first year.

Vaughn, a Mt. Juliet freshman, is the first female to be included in the track scholarship fund. Vaughn competed in the 100 meter dash competition.

Mosley was the first female to run on the Air Force track team and she competed in national competition, before coming to MTSU.

The first competition for the new track team was Feb. 24 at the Lady Vols' Invitational Indoor Meet at the University of Tennessee.

Susan Vaughn, Lady Raider track team member, works on her long jump form in preparation for the first season.

Student Council For Exceptional Children

Student Council for Exceptional Children was organized to learn more about exceptional children and to work with community agencies for the improvement of exceptional children's situations. They exist to promote programs designed to attract students into the profession of special education by working directly with Daniel McKee Special School and supporting Special Olympics. In the past they have sold coupons for Daniel McKee School. The money from the sales has provided funds for the annual Halloween and Christmas parties for the children there. They also help with the Adult Activity Center.
